Resisting Any Cut In Taxes

Ike's Administration Lays Out a Strong Plan of Opposition To Boost Exemptions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration has laid out a line of strong resistance to any increase now in individual income tax exemptions. And as House Republican and Democratic leaders squared off for battle over the issue, each predicted success.

"An exemption increase will be adopted by Congress," said Rep. Boggs (D-La), sponsor of a move to boost exemptions from $600 to $700. This would save taxpayers about 2½ billion dollars a year and cost the government that much.

Rep. Halleck of Indiana, House Republican leader, declared:

"The over-all Republican program for tax reduction is sound and in the interests of taxpayers and the country. I think it will prevail."

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey took up the cudgels for the administration late yesterday with a statement President Eisenhower was said to have approved.

He said the administration would "vigorously" fight the proposed exemption increase because:

1. The cost of national security, although coming down, remains high and taxes must continue relatively high "until government spending can be further reduced with safety."

2. The loss of revenue from proposed increased exemptions would "throw us back into substantial deficit financing which cannot be justified at the present time and which we have been working so hard to overcome." The present fiscal program contemplates a deficit next year of three billion dollars.

He said the administration's program already calls for 1954 tax reductions of more than 6½ billion dollars.

He said the program was devised as the most effective way "to promote the prosperity of all the people . . . in a way that will bring permanent benefit to all our people and our country."

Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts, assistant Democratic leader of the House, replied that the Democratic drive for increased exemtions aims at "fair play" in any tax cut.

The Republicans have made the decision to reduce taxes at a time when they are proposing an unbalanced budget," he said in an interview.

"Since the Republicans have made this decision, Democrats want any tax reductions to be equitable and fair."

The House Ways and Means Committee hopes to complete section-by-section action on the revision bill today. But another week would be required before technical drafting is completed and the committee is ready for a final vote on the big tax overhaul.

West Germany OKs Arming Men For Europe Army

BONN (AP) — The West German Bundestag (lower house) today approved constitutional changes authorizing the arming of a half million German soldiers to serve in the proposed European army.

The smashing vote was 334-144.

The decision represented an important victory for pro-Western Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who has based his foreign policy on linking West Germany militarily and politically to the West.

Both houses of the Bonn parliament have approved the army treaty but Adenauer's coalition maintained the changes approved today were needed to end a Socialist contention in the West German Supreme Court that the treaty is unconstitutional.

The two constitutional changes charge the federal government with responsibility for defense, authorize compulsory military service and declare specifically that the European army treaty and the Allied-West German peace contract do not violate the constitution.

They now go to the Bundesrat (upper house) where Adenauer's coalition has the necessary two-thirds majority to approve them. Then they must be ratified by the three Western occupation powers —the United States, Britain and France—who already have given tacit approval to the amendments.

Young Egyptian Leaders Vow They Won't Turn Against West

Foreign Policy of Nation, Friendly Toward West, Will Not Be Changed Under New Rule

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Egypt's under-40-year-old bosses assured the Western Powers today that a new and younger man in the top job doesn't mean a turn against the West.

British and American officials in Washington and London already had figured that the removal of conservative, 53-yr.-old Maj. Gen. Mohamed Naguib from the Nile republic's presidency would not change Egypt's foreign policy of friendliness with the West and determination that British troops must quit the Suez Canal zone.

Rumors circulated in Cairo, however, that the West was concerned at Naguib's replacement as premier and chairman of the ruling military Revolutionary Council by 36-year-old Lt. Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser. Maj. Salah Salem, fieriest of the council members and the national guidance minister, hurriedly summoned foreign correspondents last night to tell them:

"There will be by NO means any change in our policy, either external or internal."

Salem said the republic's policies "have always been made by all members of the (revolutionary) council," the group of young army officers who led the revolt against ex-King Farouk and have dominated the government ever since. The council's membership remains unchanged, except for Naguib's removal.

Earlier the council had insisted that Nasser had been the real leader of the revolt against Farouk and that Naguib had been only a front man. Nasser, Naguib's vice-premier, also has been Egypt's chief negotiator in the now-stalemated British-Egyptian talks to settle the Suez Canal issue.

Salem said the revolution leaders from the start had agreed that NO council member should have more power than another. The showdown with Naguib came, he said, when the President threatened to resign unless he was given veto powers on council decisions and the right to dismiss Cabinet members.

Salem insisted Naguib is not under arrest in his soldier-ringed home in a Cairo suburb. He said the ex-President would be kept at home for "a month or two" and then can tell his side of the story publicly if he wants to.

Italian Senate Nears a Verdict On Government

ROME (AP)—The divided Senate neared a verdict today on the pro-Western center government of Premier Mario Scelba, Italy's fourth government in seven months.

A vote of confidence—or no confidence—is expected tonight after a week of rough debate.

Beset on the left by Communist strikes and harassed on the right by the unbending Monarchist and Fascist opposition, Scelba nevertheless may win approval.

On paper his three parties—the Christian Democrats, Liberals and Social Democrats—have a margin of 10 or 12 over the extremists among the 243 senators.

There may, however, be last-minute deviations from discipline among the allied parties. Scelba, tough, Sicilian - born former interior minister, is respected, but does not have the personal popularity of some of his predecessors. Defeat would force him to resign.

If Scelba's coalition holds together in the Senate, he must then turn to the equally combative Chamber of Deputies for another confidence vote.

The center margin is proportionately even thinner there, amounting to about 16 in the 590 - man chamber.

The two stamps of approval are needed before Scelba, who took office Feb. 10, can pitch in earnestly on his governmental program:

1. Quick ratification of the six-nation European Defense Community Treaty.

2. Domestic tax and economic reform measures.

Ousted Syrian President Sent Into Lebanon

Dictator Shishekly Flees, 12 Political Prisoners Are Freed

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) —Rebel army leaders sent Syria's ousted dictator-president, Gen. Adib Shishekly, packing into neighboring Lebanon early today and freed 12 political leaders he had arrested last month.

Their release was announced in a communique from the army chief of staff, Gen. Shawkat Shukeyr, who last night appealed for the nation of three million people—mostly Moslem—to remain calm.

Shukeyr said the army is "the one indivisible unit in the country's defense."

The 12 men freed today included the top leaders of the chief anti-Srishekly factions—the Nationalists, Populists, Socialists and splinter parties. They were arrested Jan. 27 and accused by the dictator of "openly calling for mutiny and disturbance." The next day Shishekly clamped martial law on the country.

Shishekly, his brother Salah and his adjutant drove across the border after midnight following a swift army uprising early yesterday and an ultimatum that the dictator resign the presidency and get out of Syria within 24 hours.

The trio took refuge in Beirut's Saudi Arabian legation. Speculation in the Lebanese capital was that they would continue on to Saudi Arabia.

The rebel army command now in control in Damascus, the Syrian capital, telephoned Lebanon's President Camille Chamoun today to assure him of their "good intentions toward Lebanon," which lies between southern Syria and the Mediterranean and for 20 years after World War I was joined with it as a French mandate.

It appeared likely that former President Hachem Bey Attasi, deposed by Shishekly in December 1951 in a bloodless coup, would head up Syria's new government. He is president of the National Assembly.

His elevation was demanded yesterday in a broadcast by rebel army leaders in north Syria, who launched the revolt there by taking over the major city of Aleppo.

(In London, the Syrian Embassy's press attache said information from Syria indicated Attassi would become president, if he has not already done so.)

Shishekly, army chief of staff from 1949 until his coup and the survivor of 26 assassination attempts and plots on his life, said in his resignation later to the Assembly speaker he was quitting "to prevent bloodshed among the people and army I so much love."

In Jewish Israel, a spokesman for the Foreign Office said the "violent changes in the neighboring state, which always has shown an implacable hostility toward Israel, are fraught with incalculable consequences and cannot but cause the government of Israel serious concern."

Bricker Proposal An Issue

Judge Describes It As Decision To Lead World Or Go Isolationist

ST. LOUIS (AP) —A federal judge today described the fundamental issue of the proposed Bricker amendment as whether this nation shall retreat into isolation or courageously lead the free world.

Judge John J. Parker of the Fourth Circuit, U. S. Court of Appeals, said the amendment would hopelessly shackle treaty-making powers of the nation at a time it is necessary to organize and maintain an alliance of free nations.

He delivered at Washington University the annual lecture established in memory of the late Tyrrell Williams, law professor here for many years.

Judge Parker said some persons have become excited by the discovery that treaty-making power covers some subjects under the jurisdiction of the states.

"There is no basis whatever for such fear," he said. "The rights of the states are, of course, entitled to protection, but there is no basis in experience or reason for denying the federal government effective use of the treaty-making power to meet situations which involve matters within state jurisdiction.

"If the time ever comes when the President and two-thirds of the senators are willing to enter into treaties which would impair our constitutional structure or surrender the rights of citizens of this country to foreign powers, we shall have reached such a stage of national deterioration that nothing that we might write into the constitution would do us any good."

He said another safeguard against subversive treaties lies in court decisions that any treaty violating an express provision of the constitution is void.

Turning to proposed limitations on executive agreements, Judge Parker said:

"It seems perfectly clear that Congress may not be allowed to interfere with them without destroying the power which the Chief Executive of the nation must have to wage war or make peace successfully."

He said the only way to stop Russia is through an alliance of free nations "and we cannot organize or maintain such an alliance if we shackle the head of the country in the handling of foreign affairs.

"The President and the Senate have not betrayed us in dealing with foreign powers in the past," he said. "There is no reason to think that they will betray us in the future."

Rebels Leaving Offensive, Pull Back to Jungles

SAIGON, Indochina (AP) — The French command said today Vietminh rebels have abandoned their month-long offensive against the royal Laotian capital of Luang Prabang and are pulling back into the jungles to the north under heavy air attack.

The crack Communist-led Division 308, which had threatened the little royal seat of temples and straw huts, suffered heavy losses in its campaign, the French said.

The Vietminh first started the pull-back last Tuesday, when they lifted the siege of the beleaguered fortress of Muong Sai, 55 miles northwest of Luang Prabang. Even then, the attackers of the royal capital were withdrawing up the Bac River valley. The French said today the enemy division had retreated northward 75 miles from Luang Prabang.

It was the second time the Vietminh had staged a lightning assault on Laos, cutting across it and threatening the borders of Burma and Thailand. And it was the second time they had pulled back hastily without engaging in a single major battle.

Both campaigns were seen as intened more for political purposes than military. Luang Prabang has little or no strategic value, nor does the kingdom of Laos as a whole, the little sister in the Associated States of Indochina along with Viet Nam and Cambodia.

Senate on Verge of Deciding Debated Bricker Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, after five weeks of controversy over proposed curbs on treaty powers, appeared to be at the point of decision today with the issue teetering in the balance.

Whether any proposed constitutional amendment would get the two-thirds vote required seemed likely to be decided by a hairline margin.

Heading for the climax of the long debate, the Senate yesterday rejected by eight votes a modified proposal by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) that would have required congressional action to make both treaties and executive agreements operative as internal law.

Senators Knowland of California and Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Republican and Democratic floor leaders, said they believed final voting would come today.

The possibilities as the Senate reached the crucial point were three:

1. Passage of a three-point package plan proposed by Knowland and other Republican Senate leaders and already tentatively approved by majority vote. Knowland says it is acceptable to President Eisenhower.

2. Passage of a substitute proposal by Sen. George (D-Ga) which the administration opposes, although not as determinedly as it did the starting point of the debate, an amendment offered by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio).

3. Failure of either of these two proposals to muster the needed two-thirds margin. That would almost certainly shelve the whole issue for this year.

Approval would have to be followed by similar House action and ratification by 36 states to write the amendment into the Constitution.

Late yesterday the Senate defeated 50-42 a new section by Bricker, which he described as embodying the heart of his original proposed amendment.

Twenty-nine Republicans and 13 Democrats, most of them Southerners, supported Bricker. But 32 Democrats along with 17 Republicans and Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) voted "no."

The next test, due today, is to be on the substitute offered by George for the tentatively approved plan of the GOP Senate leaders.

George and Johnson both predicted the substitute would get the simple majority needed to displace the GOP leaders' plan. But neither would claim that it could win the necessary two-thirds vote on final passage. Both said the result would be "very close."

A highly placed Senate Republican who asked that his name not be used conceded that the George substitute probably would win a majority on the first test. But he said he did not think it could get two-thirds.

A least 18 senators oppose any constitutional change on the treaty-making power. The size of this group was shown in the 74-18 vote by which the Senate rejected yesterday a motion by Morse to send the Bricker resolution back to the Judiciary Committee for more study.

Merchants Set B-E Day Plan For the City

Teachers Will Be Guests of Business Firms on March 26

A meeting was held at 3 p. m. Thursday at the Chamber of Commerce office to acquaint business firms and industries with Business Education Day, which will be held for the first time in Sedalia on March 26.

Business Education Day, which is also called B-E Day, has been very successful in other cities and gives the teachers of the community, who are teaching the future citizens, a better understanding of business problems and how business and industries are operated.

The large number of men and women who responded to the invitation to participate in B-E Day were given an idea of what would be expected of them.

The meeting was opened by Chester A. Brown, executive manager of the Chamber of Commerce and turned over to Robert Cain, director of the recreation and education division, who explained the value of the day both to the business and industrial people and the teachers.

The day will start at 8:30 a. m. with all of the teachers and the business and industrial men and women taking part. At the Fox Theatre a short meeting will be held, after which each business man or woman will take the teachers in his group to his or her place of business, where they will be guests for the day, including lunch.

During that time all phases of the business will be explained to the teachers. The functions of each department will be pointed out. There will be displays and demonstrations. The teachers will be informed about the selling, the costs of various machines, or whatever is used in the business, the contributions made to the community, including taxes, charity donations, employment, payrolls, civic leadership, the entire cost of operations, the duties of management, anticipating and meeting the demand, volume and its effect on prices, sources of supply and the effect of government regulations.

The business men and women will welcome questions and explain in detail anything that the teachers are particularly interested in.

A complete outline of their day's schedule will be made by business men and women who will receive, two weeks in advance, a list of names of teachers who wlil be their guests.

Another meeting will be held for the business men and women later and also one for the teachers to thoroughly acquaint both the groups with B-E Day.

In a number of towns there has also been an E-B Day, too, when business men and women are invited to the schools to learn about their problems, their methods of teaching and the cost of operation of the school system. Heber U. Hunt, superintendent of Sedalia Schools, who was present at the meeting Thursday, stated that recently he had heard an outstanding manufacturer talk and in his talk he told of the wonderful results from B-E Day. Mr. Hunt, believes that E-D Day is just as important and will be as effective and plans to have such a day later.

Living Costs Near Record In January

Rise Is Too Small To Affect Payrolls Scaled to Index

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported today living costs rose in January to a point just below the record.

The rise was too small, however, to prevent workers in the auto, aircraft and farm machinery industries from losing a penny in hourly pay rates. More than a million workers were involved.

These workers got a 2 cent increase last fall when the government index hit its peak of 115.4 per cent of the 1947-49 average in October.

Today's rise brought the index to 115.2, the same figure as last September. The index had declined slightly in November and December.

Today's index, reflecting prices paid by consumers in mid-January, is the highest living cost figure in history with the exception of last October.

The index, prepared by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, was 115.4 per cent of the 1947-49 average in mid-October. It had risen steadily, though moderately, during most of 1953.

There were slight living cost declines in November with the government index at 115, and in December, at 114.9.

Rising food prices in January, however, seemed certain to reverse this two-month decline and head the index back in the direction of last October's peak.

Knife and Fork Speaker Tells How the World Looks at USA

Carleton Smith, world traveler, political economist and music critic, gave members of the Sedalia Knife and Fork Club Thursday night a view of how the world looks at America, and suggested we make the appearance more attractive. Introduced by William Rich, he addressed a large attendance of the club following a dinner meeting at Hotel Bothwell.

His topic was, "The Dollars and Cents Value of Good Looks," and he told of his conversations with leaders and others in many nations.

The people of the world, he pointed out, are impressed with America's military might, its productive genius, its materialistic wealth, but do not know Americans as individuals who enjoy life and living. Our ability in and our appreciation for the arts have never been stressed beyond our shores, he pointed out.

Currently Mr. Smith is working on a project that would overcome this fault of the nation, he believes. It is the establishing, by the National Arts Foundation, of awards for five or more phases of art, comparable to the Nobel prizes for science and literature.

If the money necessary for these awards can be secured, he said, the world will come to know Americans for their fine achievements and recognition in the world of music, drama, the dance, sculptoring, architecture and perhaps for peaceful uses of atomic energy.

These are the things which last, he said, and in most parts of the world it is the persons who are connected with the arts who are best known, most revered and remembered longest. America has made the mistake of looking up to the businessman more than the artists, he pointed out. Yet it will be the achievements of the artists which will live, not those of the business tycoons.

As casually as a Sedalian would speak of an over-the-fence conversation with a next door neighbor, Mr. Smith told of his interviews with Prime Minister de Va-

Israel Newspaper Calls for Troops To March On Suez

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israel's biggest afternoon newspaper, Maariv, said in a front page editorial today that Israeli forces should march on the Suez now to assure the security of the vital canal zone for the West.

The independent paper said the downfall of Maj. Gen. Mohamed Naguib in Egypt showed that "any adventurer who holds a pistol or, even worse, any Communist agent can seize power and immobilze the huge canal base."

The editorial said:

"The hour of the Cairo regime's fall is the hour of great opportunity to cut off the Sinai desert and the Gaza coastal strip (Egyptian territory east of the canal) from Egypt. The Israel state could have done it any time but especially can do it now. Israel can mop up the small Egyptian garrison in Gaza and reach the Suez."

The editorial said Israel has no imperialistic or conquering desires and it is not within her economic ability to volunteer "as guardian of the Suez" for the Western powers, but Israel can help in this task on the basis of its defense and industrial potential and its communications network.

The State Department disclosed today that formal invitations to the parley, agreed upon at the Big Four foreign minister meeting in Berlin last week were issued to foreign diplomats Wednesday.

Invitations went to South Korea, Australia, Belgium, Canada, Colombia, Ethiopia, Greece, Luxembourg, The Netherlands, New Zealand, The Philippines, Thailand, Turkey, and South Africa.

To Probe Probers' Policies

Changes In Rules For Investigations May Come In Order For Study of Methods

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Republican Policy Committee today offered a study looking to possible changes in the rules under which investigations, such as those made by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), are conducted.

Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich) announced he had been instructed by unanimous vote of the policy group, to "make a study of the rules and of policies with respect to investigations for general guidance on committee or subcommittee procedure."

Although Ferguson declined to say so publicly, it was obvious the move was precipitated by the uproar caused by charges of Secretary of the Army Stevens that an Army officer had been "abused as a witness before McCarthy's committee investigating Communists in government.

Asked if the issue of alleged abuse of witnesses was involved, Ferguson replied:

"If there has been any such abuse I assume that we will look into it and all other matters."

Ferguson said he has asked the policy committee staff to compile a list of rules as they now exist. Investigation committees generally have made their own rules and they are not always parallel.

The Michigan senator said he will call all Senate committee chairmen together later to discuss proposed changes in the rules governing the calling of witnesses, their testimony rights and the makeup of the investigating committees themselves.

It will have to be determined later, Ferguson said, whether the full Senate will be asked to adopt a code for investigations or whether committees will act on such a code separately.

Ferguson said the move originated in the Senate and was not suggested by the White House or by Vice President Nixon, who has been acting as a mediator in the row between McCarthy and Stevens.

From one member of McCarthy's subcommittee there was a statement, meantime, that Secretary Stevens was correct in saying he had assurances against abuse of Army witnesses at hearings by the subcommittee.

Sen. Potter (R-Mich) told reporters: "In view of conversations Stevens has had with members of the committee, Stevens' statement is absolutely correct."

No Peace Between Secretary Stevens And Sen. McCarthy

WASHINGTON (AP)—There was no peace today between Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens and Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), despite a "peace pact" heralded as settling their official differences on questioning Army personnel.

Conciliation efforts foundered yesterday when Stevens issued a definition of his position, backed by President Eisenhower, and McCarthy retorted that it contained a "completely false" statement.

Stevens' statement was intended (A) to counter the practically universal impression that he had yielded to McCarthy on the issue of the senator's handling of Army officer witnesses, and (B) to assure any military personnel interrogated in the future of protection against what Stevens had termed "abuse."

Stevens said he was confident there would be no such treatment in the future because of "assurances which I have received from members" of the Senate investigations subcommittee which McCarthy heads.

That was the statement McCarthy immediately termed "completely false."

The senator, who a moment before had been speaking with newsmen in complimentary terms of Stevens, said, "Absolutely no concession was made that any witness was abused."

To promise they would not be abused in the future, he went on, would be admitting they had been abused in the past.

James C. Hagerty, the President's press secretary, said Eisenhower approved and endorsed 100 per cent the statement in which Stevens spoke of the "assurances" and also said:

"I shall never accede to the abuse of Army personnel under any circumstances, including committee hearings. I shall never accede to their being brow-beaten or humiliated. I do not intend to allow them to be deprived of the long-established practice that they have the advice of counsel when the matter under consideration is one of essential interest to me as secretary, as was the case with Gen. Zwicker."

Pope Is Unchanged

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The condition of Pope Pius XII appeared relatively unchanged today and Romans were urged to intensify their prayers for his recovery.

The 77-year-old Pontiff, stricken by a gastric ailment Jan. 25, spent a fairly restful night, unofficial sources said. They described his condition as "just about the same as yesterday."

Five Day of Prayer Services For School Pupils of Sedalia

There will be five services for school children on the World Day of Prayer, March 5. The number of children attending last year indicated a need for more than one service.

The services for the elementary school children will be held at 3:45 p. m. and four churches will be used. Students from Broadway and Horace Mann Schools will go to First Christian Church, where the service will be under the direction of Miss Kathryn Noyes. Jefferson and Washington Schools will go to the Epworth Methodist Church, under the direction of Mrs. Hugh Jones. First Methodist Church will have Whittier School, with Mrs. Paul Hausam directing. Mark Twain and Hubbard Schools will have their services at the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church. Attendance at the services is voluntary and transportation has been arranged for the children attending.

World Day of Prayer Service for the Smith - Cotton High School will be at the nine o'clock assembly. The Rev. Lee F. Soxman will be the speaker and the service will be under the direction of Miss Kathryn Noyes.

Mrs. F. A. Kueck has been making the arrangements for the children's services during this world-wide observance. Mrs. Luther Landis is program chairman for the United Church Women of Sedalia, which has sponsored the local services for the past four years.

Guenther Anthem Will Be Sung by First Baptist Church Choir

An anthem, "Psalm 100", written by Ralph Guenther, former faculty member at Smith-Cotton High School, will be sung at the morning worship hour of the First Baptist Church this Sunday. The choir will present the number which has been dedicated to the Rev. T. W. Croxton, pastor of the church.

The pastor's sermon theme will be, "This We Believe About Salvation". In the evening he will speak on "Cushions for Support", and a male double-quartette will sing.

On Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. the Sunday school council will meet for a contributed dinner and monthly business meeting of the church will follow at 8 o'clock. The date of this meeting has been moved up one week on account of Faith Week, which will be observed March 7-11. Courses to be studied will be: "The Baptist Faith," "Heroes of the Faith," "The Faith We Hold," and "The Faith They Kept".

'Learning to Know God'

"Learning to Know God" will be the sermon theme of the Rev. D. Warren Neal, pastor, at the Sunday morning worship service of the Broadway Presbyterian Church.

GROWING SPIRITUALLY

By
E. STANLEY JONES

Ps. 92:12-14 (R.S.V.)

THE STAGE IS SET FOR GROWTH

If the end of human existence is to live creatively and growingly, then it is obvious that the stage on which this drama of life is set, namely the universe, had to be imperfect. It had to be the kind of universe that would not be perfect in itself, but would make possible our perfection. It would have to be such that, in striving to perfect it, we would help perfect ourselves. It couldn't be perfect.

Therefore the objection that people bring against God—that He created a universe in which there are earthquakes, tornadoes, volcanoes, germs that cause illness, snakes, weeds, and other things that have plagued the life of men, and therefore He cannot be a perfect God, for His universe is imperfect—misses the point. The end of life is not human happiness; it is human growth. Happiness is a by-product of that growth.

The end of life is not happiness, but growth in character and achievement. The universe therefore had to be a semihard universe—it had to be sufficiently hard to sharpen our souls upon. Were there no disease germs, we would not give ourselves to research to find remedies—we would not grow. Were there no earthquakes, we would not improve our building construction to withstand them—we would not grow. Were there no weeds, we would not improve our crops to outwit them, and we would not improve ourselves in the process. We had to be unfinished masters of an unfinished world. In finishing the unfinished world we help finish ourselves.

We have, then, the two things necessary for growth: first, an urge within us for development and growth, an urge for creation; and second, an environment which makes growth possible and which stimulates it. If we don't grow, then it isn't because God hasn't set the stage for growth. He has. The fault lies within us. We have stifled the urges within us and have muffed the opportunities around us. We are self-stunted. If you are a stunted and runted human being, it is because you have decided to be just that.

O God, I see that I have created my own lack of creation — I've decided against growth. Forgive me. Amen.

AFFIRMATION FOR THE DAY: If my environment is rasping, I will use it to sharpen my soul.

Dr. William Inge, British Churchman, Dies at Age of 93

LONDON (AP) —Dr. William R. Inge, 93, famed British churchman and former "Gloomy Dean" of St. Paul's Cathedral, died today.

He had been illed for several weeks with bronchitis.

His mind was alert to the end. Even as he reached 90, he came forth with yet another of the dour predictions which gave him his nickname:

"We are approaching another dark age."

In 1944, during World War 11, at 83 he said: "As a great industrial nation we shall not and cannot recover from this war."

Dr. Inge once explained how he got the title "Gloomy Dean."

"I believe I had a reputation for gloom at one time," he said, "just because I tried to tell the truth as I saw it."

He was dean of St. Paul's, one of the Church of England's greatest cathedrals and Sir Christopher Wren's architectural masterpiece, from 1911 to 1934.

Rev. Campbell Resigns His Pastorate Here

The Rev. Bird H. Campbell, pastor of the First Assembly of God Church, has resigned and will preach his farewell sermon Sunday. The Rev. and Mrs. Campbell first came to the church in December, 1944 and stayed for four years and three months, after which they resigned and went to Europe for 90 days' revival work.

After four years on the evangelistic field, they were recalled in January of 1952. In January of this year the General Council of the Assemblies of God appointed him to the executive offices in Springfield as the personnel manager and chaplain.

During the last four years, the Assemblies of God have built a $1,500,000 gospel publishing house and now they are completing plans to build a million dollar general office building to run parallel with the publishing house. This will house all the offices of the publishing house and general council.

In this building will also be a chapel seating 600, a cafeteria to feed the 400 workers and executives. Their national broadcast, "Revival Time." will also emanate from their own studio. This will be a four story building of the latest design.

Rev. Campbell stated the church, at a special called business meeting ten days ago, elected the Rev. Floyd Butenbach, Elmer, Mo., as pastor. Mr. Butenbach and his family will be moving to Sedalia during the week of Feb. 21.

Sunday night Rev. Campbell plans on speaking on a prophetical subject.

Another feature of the Lenten season will be the Lent's Question Box which will be used for the Wednesday evening services. Any questions on religion may be asked and the pastor will give the answer.

Sunday School Lesson Notes...

Parallels in Old and New Testaments

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

For many years I have been interested in comparing what have seemed to me parallel passages in the Old and New Testaments.

When, for instance, I read the conclusion of the Ninetieth Psalm, which risen to a great climax of faith after an expression of human moods of frustration, I like to turn to the passage that climaxes Paul's chapter concerning the Resurrection in Corinthians 15.

Note the parallelism of hope, faith and triumph as we set these passages side by side:

Psalm 90:16,17: "Let Thy work appear unto Thy servants, and Thy glory unto their children. And let the beauty of the Lord our God be upon us: and establish Thou the work of our hands upon us; yea, the work of our hands establish Thou it."

And here is I Corinthians 15:58: "Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, for as much as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord."

There are other striking parallels, as between passages in the prophecy of Amos and the words of Jesus on social wrongs, in Matthew 23.

But perhaps the most impressive of all is the parallel of the Shepherd Psalm 23 with Christ's description of Himself as the Good Shepherd in John 10:1-18.

To the beauty of the Shepherd of the Psalm as bountiful giver, leader, guide and comforter, even in the passage through the valley of the shadow of death, is added the sacrificial note of the Good Shepherd comforting others in death and giving His life for the sheep.

I think it is this that enforces so strongly one's sense of the unique nature and mission of Jesus. Claims of divinity, touched with boastfulness, only evoke deep repulsion; but there is no such reaction to the Master's self-description.

He is, indeed, the Good Shepherd, claiming only to live and serve His fellowmen; a Shepherd of sheep, willing to die that others might live.

The picture of the Good Shepherd has been enriched in legend and in art, but no enrichment has equaled what is here in Our Lord's original words.

Here is the full description of the Shepherd — the Good Shepherd actually laying down His life. Even as Jesus spoke these words, the shadow of the Cross was upon Him. The Shepherd Song of Psalm 23, if touched with tragedy, was soon to be touched with glory.

Calls Federal Power Policy Anti-monopoly

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Fred G. Aandahl said today the federal government's new power policy is to veer away from any trend toward a federal power monopoly.

Aandahl, former governor of North Dakota, is assistant secretary of the Department of Interior. He came here to speak and to be quizzed at the 17th annual meeting of the Missouri State Rural Electrification Association.

Aandahl said the government expects to continue marketing power from the big hydroelectric projects. But, he added, "I do not think that the federal government should build steam plants."

He said the department has no objection to rural electrification cooperatives going ahead with steam generating plants if they are found to be economically sound.

In fact, he said, "we want as much competition as possible" in the electric power industry, from private utilities, municipally owned plants and rural electrification co-ops.

"I don't think there should be a monopoly of any kind—either by private utilities or by the federal government."

Delegates questioned Aandahl sharply about recently announced plans to curtail the staff of the Southwestern Power Administration which supplies energy to many Missouri co-ops.

He said no cuts would be made until present projects are completed, such as the new substations at Springfield and Clinton.

He also was asked about contracts between SPA an' Missouri generating and transmission co-operatives which operate steam plants at Chamois, Poplar Bluff and Missouri City. Under these agreements, SPA leases transmission lines with an option to buy them and the steam plants later.

Aandahl said "I do not like these contracts" because they "put the federal government too extensively into business as an agency to market steam power."

He described them as one of many instances "pointing in the direction of federal monopoly."

He said enough money is available to continue carrying out the contracts for the rest of this fiscal year, but no decision has been made on what will happen next year.

The association elected George N. Robbins of Cassville president, succeeding B. M. Seaman of Ethel, who became assistant secretary.

Bruce Tilley of Licking was chosen vice president, Jack W. Crouch of Turney was re-elected secretary and J. C. Omer of Fayette was chosen treasurer.

The convention was to end late today after considering resolutions.

Enters Court Twice, Before Same Judge

SALEM, Mass. (AP) — Robert P. Tardiff, 39, has been in court twice in the past 19 years—and on both occasions he was sentenced by the same judge.

In 1935, Judge Sears sentenced him as a defective delinquent. He served 16 years in various state institutions on that charge.

Grain Prices Go Up Despite Record Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP) — American grain markets are witnessing the strange sight of wheat prices going up in face of a record surplus supply of the grain.

In fact, the surplus is large enough to fill all normal domestic needs for the grain well past the middle of 1955 without the harvest of a single bushel this year.

Pointing out the paradox, the Agriculture Department said today it expects further increases in price before this year's crop starts moving to market next summer.

The reason for increases in prices at a time when they normally could be expected to continue weak or decline is that government farm price support programs have created a market "shortage" in the midst of plenty.

The government itself owns about 438 million bushels of wheat acquired under price support programs prior to the 1953 crop. In addition, about 500 million bushels from last year's crop have been locked up, so to speak, under price support loans to growers.

As a consequence, there is not enough wheat remaining in regular market channels to take care of needs until the 1954 crop becomes available. The nation needs about 700 million bushels a year for its requirements, exclusive of export demands.

Thus, buyers have been finding it necessary to bid up prices in order to get supplies for current milling and other needs. The department said prices for wheat have continued to advance since last October and are expected to continue to strengthen.

Prices dropped to as low as $1.85 a bushel nationally in the fall. They now average slightly above $2.

lera of Eire, Winston Churchill of the British Empire, the late Josef Stalin, Prime Minister Nehru of India, General Naguib, who until yesterday was president of Egypt, and many other notable figures of the world.

Most of the leaders of the nations, he said, understand America at least to a degree and hope for more technical assistance from this country, as well as its help in arms and finances. The ordinary people, however, have views based mostly upon the movies — and picture us as gangsters, he declared. They also know our bubble gum, our neon signs and similar features, none of which are too good for us.

Pointing to the misunderstandings of these peoples around the globe, Mr. Smith said it is necessary for America to sell itself. Bringing youths of other nations here to live with us is one of the best plans, he declared.

Quoting Churchill, he said, "If men would only understand each other they would neither idolize nor hate." That is Mr. Smith's philosophy.

At the meeting, over which A. H. Wilkes, president, presided, the members elected three new members for the board of directors: Harold Barrick, Miss Eva Evans and C. F. Scotten.

Friday at noon these directors, and those still on the board, met and elected new officers for the coming year. Henry Salveter was elected president; William Rich, vice president; Charles Hanley, second vice president and Mrs. John Walch, secretary.

The board also approved the Smith-Cotton cafeteria as the place of the guest night meeting on April 7.

Jet Pilot Lands Fast Plane With Dead Stick

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A jet pilot whose engine sputtered and died as he cruised 43,000 feet above Philadelphia circled the powerless plane 40 miles to a 150-mile-an-hour 'dead stick landing at International Airport last night and with the aid of tail parachute.

The pilot, Lt. Quitman C. Zeagler, 33, of Clarks, La., stepped from the two-place F94 Starfire concerned only about what had happened to the wingtip fuel tanks he had jettisoned.

"I just hope those tanks landed in the water," said Keagler. Apparently he hit his target, the Delaware River, for the tanks had not been located today.

Trial of Red Leaders Recessed to March 8

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The trial of five Communist leaders charged with conspiring to advocate overthrow of the government by force is in recess until March 8.

The recess was called by U. S. District Judge Roy W. Harper after he denied a defense motion for a mistrial yesterday. Judge Harper explained that he would be attending an Eighth Judicial Circuit Conference here next week.

Appropriations Bills Given Before House

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Appropriations recommended last Tuesday by Gov. Phil M. Donnelly were introduced during a technical session of the Missouri House today.

Only three members were present as 15 bills, totaling $3,870,931, were offered by the House Appropriations Committee. All but one carried just the amounts Donnelly suggested but each bill carried a separate appropriation. Donnelly had submitted seven bills to cover his money recommendations.

Rep. Max Myers (R) of Jasper County, appropriations chairman in the Republican controlled House, said earlier the bills were drafted incorrectly and their introduction was delayed until new measures could be written.

The new bill in the batch was one for $6,000 to pay the constitutional mileage allowances of legislators for attending the second special session in four months. Donnelly recommended an appropriation for the legislature but set no amount.

Among major bills were ones to: Increase state aid for Missouri's freight free hay program from $6½ million to $8½ million, give the state penitentiary an emergency extra fund of $1,009,345, give $100,000 more toward administration of the state's new driver responsbility act, provide $500,000 more toward construction of a 500-patient building at Higginsville for the Marshall - Carrollton School for Feeble Minded and provide $30,000 more for construction of a sewage system at State Hospital No. 3, Nevada.

Although both houses are in virtual weekend recess, partisan battles over the job ahead of the special session still seethed.

Yesterday, veteran Sen. Michael Kinney D) of St. Louis charged Republicans were trying to make a political issue out of the St. Louis earnings tax.

The $8 million a year tax will expire April 1 unless the Legislature extends it. Kinney introduced a bill Tuesday to give the city a permanent right to levy the tax.

But Republican members reportedly have been trying for a compromise in the hope the tax extension will be defeated and the GOP can take credit for a tax reduction in this election year, Kinney said.

"It is regrettable," he said, "that the St. Louis earnings tax is apparently being converted into a political issue with the intent of discrediting the Democratic administrations in the state and its largest city."

Senate Group Approves Air Force Academy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee yesterday approved a House-passed bill to set up an Air Force academy, but with some additional provisions.

One would allow 12½ per cent of the graduates of all three service academies to switch over to other branches of service. Another would require the secretary of the Air Force to accept an advisory commission's choice of a site, if the commission picked one unamimously.

Burglars Work Hard, Find It's Useless

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Burglars broke into Max Schwartz's food market and spent several hours prying the steel off a heavy safe and cracking through the cement lining. Then they discovered (1) the safe had been open all the time—a turn of the handle would have saved them all that work, and (2) only a few business papers were inside.

U. S. Women Report Brazil Low On Coffee

MIAMI, Fla., (AP) — Drink your coffee and pay the price.

"That's about all the American family can do, because there really isn't much coffee in Brazil, four clubwomen invited to investigate advised upon returning here today.

The four, all holding important posts in the General Federation of Women's Clubs, went to Brazil as guests of that nation, and checked the coffee supply problem from facindas (farms) to empty warehouse upon empty warehouse.

"They've really had a bad time of it," said Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman of Jerseyville, Ill., first vice president of the General Federation. "We saw millions of trees dead of a forst which struck last July 4. They were new trees, just coming into bearing."

"The frost deprived the world market of an amount of coffee which would have supplied 150 to every American this coming ing year," said Mrs. Gilbert Loebs of Waterville, Md., the federation's consumer chairman. "And there was drought and insect damage besides that."

Terming themselves the "coffee women," the four sat around a table at an airport restaurant sipping coffee as they talked with newsmen.

"I never tasted anything so good in my life," commented Mrs. Zaio Woodford Schroeder of Grosse Point, Mich., a practicing attorney and research specialist for the federation, said of American-style coffee. "In Brazil they serve it thick, strong and black."

Mrs. Carl E. Swanbeck of Huron, Ohio, home chairman for the federation, reported the group were the first women ever permitted inside the Santos Coffee Exchange, brief talk.

"I told them not to worry, Americans would never stop drinking coffee," said Mrs. Chapman. "The question was a very sensitive one all through Brazil. They were disturbed by the criticism of coffee prices and feared we would turn away from coffee up here."

The group flew from New York to Rio De Janeiro, then to the plantation town of Londrina, 200 miles distant. There, by car, they toured the producing area, and inspected it from the air.

Playhouse Cast Begins Rehearsal For Play In April

A gripping drama of unusual interest and originality, "Night Must Fall," will be presented by the Community Playhouse on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 6 and 7, at 8 p.m. at the Smith-Cotton auditorium.

Hank Evans, director, has chosen the characters for the play and several of them will be remembered for their excellent performances in other dramas presented by the group.

Mike Bogutski will take the part of the leading character, Dan; Marguerite Peabody the role of Mrs. Bramson; Lucille Stephenson will play Olivia Grayne; Scott Webber, of Robert Laurie; Stella Kennedy, of Mrs. Terrance; Charles Gentges, inspector; Marily Garrett, of Dora Parkie; Billie Knox of Nurse Libby; and Jim Hardy, the lord chief justice.

This blood curdling portrait of a murderer at his murdering is lightened with comedy and is one of the best of thrill plays.

The set, which is already being made, is of the sitting room of Forest Corner, Mrs. Bramson's bungalow, Essex, England, and the cast has already started rehearsals.

Springfield Wants Second Big Reservoir

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Springfield Water Co., plagued by a drought caused water shortage and expecting a big increase in the city's population, asked state permission today to construct a second water storage reservoir on the Little Sac River.

The proposed new "Fellows Lake," to cost an estimated $2,349,000, would be built about 5½ miles upstream from the present McDaniel Lake reservoir. The new impoundment would be capable of storing about 9 billion gallons of water behind an earth fill dam that would rise 104 feet from the bed of the Little Sac and would stretch a maximum of 1,820 feet across the valley.

Engineers figured a minimum of 1,160 acres of land would be inundated at full level but an additional 2,000 acres would have to be bought to protect the land of adjacent property owners and to prevent erosion and pollution.

The company said the additional reservoir is needed because "existing sources of water and storage facilities are rapidly approaching a stage of deficiency even in a normal rainfall year and because of the unprecedented drought in the past two years and the continued rapid growth of the City of Springfield."

The water level in McDaniel Lake has dropped alarmingly—so fast as rain continued a rarity in the area that cloud-seeding apparatus has been installed in an effort to coax water from the clouds.

The company said, too, it has been predicted that the Springfield area will grow to a population of 116,000 by 1990 and if water consumption continues to increase, per capita consumption may rise to 145 gallons a day.

That would produce a drain of 16.7 million gallons a day by 1990, the company said.

But construction of Fellows Lake, plus continued use of McDaniel Lake, would provide adequate storage even in the driest years, the company said.

But construction of Fellows Lake, plus continued use of McDaniel Lake, would provide adequate storage even in the driest years, the company said.

The utility told the Missouri Public Service Commission that if the project is approved a financing plan will be submitted for PSC consideration. The state Board of Health already has given tentative approval of the reservoir expansion, the utility said.

Apparently the die missed hitting the coin squarely and the beaver and Queen Elizabeth designs have been pushed off center.

Selvy Tops AP All-American '54 Team

Furman Ace Named on 321 Of 365 Votes

NEW YORK (AP) — Furman's Frank Selvy, who sets a major college record every time he scores a basket, tops the 1954 Associated Press All - America Collegiate Basketball Team announced today.

Named as Selvy's teammates by a vote of 365 sportswriters and broadcasters were Don Schlundt of Indiana; Tom Gola of LaSalle; Cliff Hagan of Kentucky; and Bob Pettit of Louisiana State.

Not since the heyday of Easy Ed MaCauley of St. Louis back in 1949 has a player been accorded as many votes as Selvy, a native of Corbin, Ky.

He was picked on the first team on 280 ballots; 41 times on the second team. In other words he was named on 321 of the 365 ballots from all parts of the country.

On the basis of five points for a first team vote and two points for the second team, Selvy polled 1,482 points, 273 points more than the 1,209 rolled up by Schlundt, Indiana's record scorer in the Big Ten.

Gola and Hagan, two repeaters on the All-America, tallied 1,146 and 1,101 points, respectively. Bob Pettit of Louisiana State, whose scoring feats were overshadowed by Selvy's, was far behind with 784 points.

Pettit polled less first place votes than the controversial Bevo Francis of little Rio Grande (Ohio) College, but made the first team by virtue of numerous second team marks.

Selvy has been termed by many "an all-time All-America." Although at 6:03 he is the smallest player on the team, "Fabulous Frank" this season has broken major college records like matchsticks.

He is perhaps known best for his 100-point spree against Newberry on Feb. 13 and the fact he is the first major college player to score more than 1,000 points in one season. As of Feb. 23, he had 1,099.

Selvy can do everything well on the court, but the Furman senior has concentrated on a jump shot that is virtually impossible to stop. This has helped him to a 42-point per game average this season and to 21 national individual scoring records.

Schlundt, a junior, has played a major role in keeping Indiana's 1953 NCAA champions in the thick of the struggle for the Big Ten title. The 6:10 native of South Bend set a Big Ten single game individual record by scoring 47 points against Ohio State. Playing mostly around the pivot he is known as "Mr. Inside" to Indiana followers.

Gola, who gets as many rebounds as he does points, and he is no slouch at that, sparked LaSalle into this year's NCAA eliminations. An All-America last year as a sophomore and now as a junior, Gola next year will have the opportunity to become the only player to make the All-America three straight years. As a repeater this year he has equalled the feats of Ralph Beard of Kentucky and MaCauley, who were picked on both the 1948 and 1949 All-America teams. He stands 6:06 and picked the son of a Philadelphia policeman.

The ball handling ability and floor generalship of Hagan, 6:04, helped mighty Kentucky regain the basketball heights this year after the Wildcats' absence from competition last season because of discipline from the Southeastern Conference and the NCAA.

Hagan, now classified as a senior, may also be termed a repeater since he made the 1952 team as a junior.

Many of the sportswriters and broadcasters contended that Hagan and his two Kentucky teammates, Ramsey of the second team and Lou Tsioropoulos of the honorable mention list, were not eligible because they actually were in their fifth year. The NCAA ruled that they could not play in the NCAA playoffs should Kentucky qualify for an NCAA berth.

Since the All-America is based on regular season play and under Southeastern Conference rules the three were eligible, the votes for them were permitted to stand.

Pettit, one of the biggest (6:09) players in the sport and called by his coach "the fastest," cracked Southeastern Conference scoring records during the season, but his feats were virtually overlooked because of Selvy.

The Baton Rouge, La., senior owns every LSU scoring record and recently set a new SEC season record by upping his total in conference play this year to 594 points.

Pettit, famed for his hook shot and his agility, is regarded as a threat from anywhere on the floor. He averaged around 33 points per game.

Leo Lips He Has His Starting Lineup Settled, Ready to Play

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The most important news to come out of the baseball training camps up to this point has Leo Durocher, the manager of the New York Giants, saying that he already has settled upon a starting lineup and intends to stick with it, barring the unforseen.

If Leo means it, and there is good reason to believe that he does, this might well mean that the National League is about to engage in a real old-fashioned three-club Donneybrook instead of the two-club duel between Brooklyn and Milwaukee which is generally being smoked up. Instead of finishing fifth, as they did last season, the Polo Grounders could with a break here and there stay in the thick of the battle.

The consensus among those who followed the famous old club all last season was that it suffered through poor, or at least indifferent, management. Durocher himself has been quoted as saying he did a bad job, which is the most remarkable admission we can recall a manager having made. In many eyes it made Leo a much bigger man.

The manager's biggest mistake, as he is implicitly admitting in his opening communique from Phoenix, was in juggling his players around until they had all of it they could stand and finally quit on him when they still were in third place. Of their last 64 games, they won only 24.

It was not, of course, all Leo's fault. The failure of his two backsprung pitching stars, Larry Jansen and Sal Maglie, to regain anything like their pennant-winning form of 1951, made it impossible to match Brooklyn's burning pace. But it was the player juggling, Leo's critics say, that brought on the complete collapse.

The uncertainty and discontent among the Giants began almost from his first day of training, when Durocher announced that he was shifting his field captain, Alvin Dark, from shortstop to second base and installing the slick fielding rookie, Daryl Spencer, at short. It looked like a sensible move, on the surface, but it never worked out and the club never fully recovered from the effects of the experiment.

Spencer, after being struck squarely in the face by a Mike Garcia fast ball in an exhibition game with Cleveland, never lived up to his promise, and except at first base the entire Giants infield remained in ferment as Durocher shifted his men about like a three-card monte dealer. It took him too long to find that Hank Thompson was his third baseman and that Don Mueller could play all the right field required. By the time Leo finally made up his mind, his players apparently no longer cared.

Jimmie Fox Looks For Baseball Job

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Hall of Famer Jimmie Foxx, generally recognized as the greatest right-handed power hitter of modern times, is looking for a job in baseball.

The slugging first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics and Boston Red Sox, whose 534 home runs ranked him second only to Babe Ruth, has been out of baseball for five years. He ended his active major league career with the Phillies in 1945 and managed the St.Petersburg club of the Florida International League from 1947 to 1949.

"I'm anxious to get back into baseball in almost any capacity, he said at the recent baseball players' golf tournament at the Tampa Golf and Country Club. "I talked with Hank Greenberg (Cleveland general manager) recently and he said he'd let me know. So far I haven't heard anything from him."

Like the majority of ex-ballplayers, Foxx bemoaned the lack of incentive and ambition among present-day players. He thinks all players should set goals for themselves each season and strive to attain them.

"Ballplayers today are too smug and satisfied," he said. "When I played, I used to set my sights on certain figures at the start of each season. I promised myself I'd hit .350, collect 50 home runs, drive in 150 runs and make 200 hits.

"Maybe these marks appear too high but that's what gives you the biggest satisfaction—attaining something that appears out of reach."

Three Card Rookies Have Training Ailments

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—All three of the St. Louis Cardinals $100,000 rookies have come up with spring training ailments, none believed serious.

Tom Alston, Negro first baseman, arrived at the Cardinals' camp here yesterday with a sore back. Trainer Doc Weaver said of Alston:

"Call it a cold, or lumbago, or just a stich in the back like we all get some time or another."

Memo Luna, the Mexican left-handed pitcher, has needed massage on his pitching arm but was throwing with some authority yesterday.

Alex Grammas, shortstop prospect, was still resting a lame right shoulder but was expected to test his arm over the weekend.

In 1953 infant mortality in the United States reached a new low of 28 per 1,000 live births.

Big 7 Track Meet Opens; KU Favored

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Kansas University's tremendous distance corps, featuring the great Wes Santee, is expected to pace the Jayhawks to their third straight Big Seven indoor track title in the league's 26th meet opening tonight.

Preliminaries in the 60-yard dash, 60-yard high and low hurdles, 440-yard dash, 880-yard run and shot put, plus finals in the broad jump, will begin at 7 o'clock (CST) in Municipal Auditorium.

Finals are scheduled to start at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

Santee, who'll be keeping an eye on the 4-minute mile, intends to break his own mile record, 4:08.3, and half mile standard, 1:52.2, for the meet set last year. He'll go after the 880 record in tonight's preliminaries.

Santee, who set a world indoor dirt track record of 4:04.9 at Michigan State's fieldhouse last week, hopes first of all to wipe out Gil Dodds' world record of 4:05.3 made under more or less standard indoor board track conditions.

Of course Santee would like to smash the even faster record of another Kansasn, Glenn Cunningham, who ran the mile on Dartmouth's board track in 4:04.4 in 1938, but the advantage the old K. U. alumnus enjoyed may be too great.

Cunningham, now a gentleman farmer at Cedar Point, Kan., had to turn only 6½ laps for his mile and he had the further advantage of pace-making by runners who were given yardage handicaps. Santee will have relatively mediocre competition here and will have to whirl 12 laps on the smaller auditorium spruce boards.

Dodds went 11 laps for his record in Madison Square Garden in New York City.

Coach Bill Easton, who has directed Kansas to three of the last four indoor titles, will send four top hands into both the mile and 2-mile runs and three experts into the 880. Every one of them is expected to score points.

Team strength gets pretty thin after Kansas. On a basis of dual meets this winter, Colorado and Missouri appear the next strongest teams. Oklahoma, Nebraska, Kansas State and Iowa State each have good individual performers.

In addition to Santee, others defending their championships will be Neville Price, Oklahoma broad jumper, and Phil Heidelk, Nebraska high jumper. Price was recently crowned indoor AAU champion at 24 feet 5½ inches. His meet record is 24 feet 9 inches set last year.

Heidelk is unbeaten in four meets this winter. He's been consistent around 6 feet 4 inches.

Missouri's Bill Dickey is likely to take a solid crack at the pole vault record of 13 feet 11⅞ inches by Bill Carroll of Oklahoma in 1950. Dickey has done 14 feet ¼ inch this season.

Oklahoma again will be a threat for a mile relay record. The Sooners set the mark of 3:21 seconds last year. Two returnees, Phil Beeler and Harry Lee, teamed with sophomores Chuck Scully and Dick Shunatona to win the event in the Sugar Bowl.

Many Thrills In Thursday Night Events

A slim crowd at the Pettis County Post No. 16 American Legion wrestling matches enjoyed more than two hours of thrilling wrestling in the double-main event held Thursday night. As one fan said there was a "thrill-a-minute" in both events.

In the opening event Olga Zepeda, Houston, Tex., won two out of three falls, on fall when her opponent Ann La Verne, Canton, O., was disqualified for unnecessary roughness. It was a packed full of thrills event and kept the fans howling in favor of the little Mexican girl from Texas. She quickly won the following of the fans from the time the bell tapped starting the match.

La Verne won the first fall with a series of drop kicks and knee lifts followed by a body smother in nine minutes and 20 seconds. The second fall was eight minutes and 44 seconds and went to Miss Zepeda who used a series of flying drop kicks, body scissors and finally ended with a body smother. The time in the third period was seven minutes and 30 second when the referee disqualified Miss LaVerne who continually kicked Miss Zepeda off the shoulder of the ring as she tried to climb back through.

In the final event Richard "Dick" Brown, Overland Park, Kan., son of former Champion Orville Brown, battled with Frank Altman of St. Joseph, to win two of three falls.

The event was another one of the rough types in which Brown kept his ringside following and Altman only enraged the Sedalians for the tactics he used in trying to win. Brown won the first fall after 11 minutes and 15 seconds of honest-to-goodness Texas rules wrestling. He polished Altman off with a series of right forearm slugs to the boy from St. Joe and knocked him to the floor to win.

In the second period Altman cut short the time by a series of headlocks and tosses, followed by a terrific smash to Brown's chest knocking him to the mat. A smother won in six minutes. Brown came back in the third period to have another terrific battle in the ring with Altman, but a series of flying toe holds ended the event when Brown got a leg twister on Altman who gave up. The time was 14 minutes.

The next matches will be Thursday March 11.

Holman Happy Name Is Cleared

NEW YORK (AP) — Nat Holman, the graying court perfectionist who spent 34 years making City College of New York (CCNY) a basketball power, is happy his name has been cleared.

The 56-year-old Holman, who was charged with conduct unbecoming a teacher, was exonerated by a board of education trial committee yesterday.

"It's been horrible, that's all I can say," said Holman of the long investigation by the board of higher education after the fixing scandals of 1951.

"I'm glad it's over. My plans? Honestly, I haven't thought about a thing except clearing my name. When the board of higher education issues its ruling, then I'll decide what to do.

"Right now I'm happy. It's been rougher than you can imagine."

The board still must officially approve the majority recommendation of the three-man trial committee at its regular meeting next Wednesday. But that is regarded as a mere formality.

Holman said "everything would be premature" if he commented on the trial committee's decision yesterday because it still must be passed by the full 21-member tribunal.

Irish Figure To Go Long Way In NCAA

NEW YORK (AP)—The way they're knocking over all opposition, Notre Dame's Fighting Irish figure to go a long way in the NCAA Basketball Tournament next month.

The South Bend team, ranked 6th in the nation, won its 14th straight last night, trouncing Marquette 79-66 and making its overall season record 18-2.

With only two more regular season games to play, against Loyola of Chicago and Marquette, Notre Dame is almost certain to finish with its best season since 1935 when it won 22 and dropped 2. The Irish are scheduled to open their bid for the NCAA title in a first round game against Loyola of New Orleans at Fort Wayne, Ind., on March 9.

As usual, Captain Dick Rosenthal was the big man for Notre Dame. The rangy center contributed 29 points and placed his three-year scoring total at 1,014 points, adding to the school record he set against Pennsylvania last week.

Seattle, which faces Idaho State in another NCAA first round game at Corvallis, Ore., on March 9, also extended its winning streak by downing Portland 80-64. The Chieftains now have piled up 25 straight since their opening game loss to Wichita.

NCAA officials filled the tourney's last at-large berth yesterday with the selection of Penn State. The Nittany Lions, with an 11-5 record, will meet Toledo in the other half of Notre Dame-Loyola double-header.

Meanwhile, things weren't working out as smoothly for the National Invitation Tournament which still needs four teams.

First, Bowling Green turned down a bid early yesterday, claiming the New York competition would conflict with examination week at the Ohio school.

Then, last night, the Falcons stunned Dayton, already an NIT entry, 107-73, handing the Flyers their sixth loss in 29 games.

Bill Uhl, Dayton's 6-11, dropped in 27 points, but Bowling Green controlled the backboards and outscored its opponents in every quarter.

St.Francis of Brooklyn, also in the NIT whipped Iona in the first game of the final regular season Madison Square doubleheader. Hank Daubenschmidt's 25 points paced the Terriers, who captured their 14th victory in a row.

'Old Man' Pep Meets Young Perez Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — It's the old story of the up-and-coming youngster and the fading veteran in Madison Square Garden tonight when 31-year-old Willie Pep risks his fistic future against 20-year-old Lulu Perez in a 10-rounder.

The Brooklyn speedboy, only 9 when the Hartford, Conn., boxing master won the featherweight tiel for the first time, is a slight 6-5 favorite to dash the ring-scarred Pep's hopes of getting another crack at the 126-pound title.

The bout will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC) at 10 p.m., EST.

Has Willie enough left in his aging frame to beat back the challenge of a good but still green hopeful?

"That's the $64 question," remarked Lou Viscusi, manager of the ex-champion. "I know he still has a great fighting brain. The only question is whether he has the stamina in a fight with a youngster. Perez is a tough test.

"Willie has started to talk about fighting Sandy Saddler (the featherweight champion) again for the title," added Viscusi. "You know he said he had seen enough of Saddler after losing the last one. If he looks good against Perez, we may go after the shot. If not—"

Lou's voice trailed off. He shook his head.

One of the ring's all-time greats, Willie would be a cinch to win if he was only one half the Pep of yesteryear. But the speed has gone out of his legs, his reflexes have slowed, and he is getting hit by punches now that wouldn't have come close to him in bygone days. The lacy network of scars over his eyes tear open easily.

Despite the inroads of time, Wee Willie has been able to win 19 fights in a row since he was stopped by Tommy Collins in six rounds last June. His record is 183-5-1 with 55 knockouts.

Perez, a boxer-puncher with a style similar to Pep's, has been fighting pro only two years and eight months. A good borer and a crisp puncher, he has a 34-2 record. He lost decisions to Charley Slaughter and Dave Gallardo but beat them in return bouts. He has 19 kayos to his credit.

Phillies No Whiz Kids, But Are Good

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Phillies may not come up with a crew of whiz kids this season like they did in 1950 when they won the National League pennant, but they'll definitely not be accused of loading.

Maybe Steve O'Neill is thinking of the fate of his predecessor, Eddie Sawyer. After the Phils astounded one and all by winning in '50, they fell to fifth in '51, fourth in '52 and got home in a tie for third last year.

Sawyer was let go in the middle of the '52 season when it became apparent that his charges were going nowhere in particular. Some of the experts said he was too lenient with the kids. Everyone was agreed that the youngsters couldn't take the prosperity and spent too much time reading their press clippings.

This year, O'Neill said, the Phillies will hold regular morning practice sessions—and that goes even after night games. If the club keeps climbing it should be at least a contender for the pennant, and O'Neill is taking no chances.

"It isn't a matter of overworking or punishing the fellows," said the easy - going Irishman. "It's merely a matter of doing the job were paid to do.

"Last year we were in good shape until the middle of the season. We were either in first place or only a couple of games from the lead. Some fellows took it easy and we were lucky to finish in a third-place tie with the Cards.

"In the days when I played and when all our coaches played, it was part of the day to work out in the morning. Of course, we played all day ball. But even so, getting in a morning workout after night games isn't going to be too hard on the players."

Elsewhere on the citrus circuit: Joe Black, the pitcher who could mean a lot to the Brooklyn Dodgers, will be permitted to work out his own problems, said Manager Walt Alston . . . Ron Necciai, the onetime minor league strikeout whiz, is having stomach trouble and Pittsburgh General Manager Branch Rickey has ordered him not to participate in intrasquad games . . . With signing of Don Mueller, the New York Giants have only one of their top operatives still outside the fold — Whitey Lockman . . . Billy Hoeft, the Detroit hurling stringbean, said he feels stronger than ever and thinks this will be his year.

Boston Red Sox Manager Lou Boudreau planned an intrasquad game today because of the "condition" of pitchers Joe Dobson, Leo Kiely and Tom Herrin . . . The Cardinals will have only one workout a day . . . "Second workouts would be for people who goofed off in the first one," said Manager Eddie Stanky.

Superintendent's Report to the Commissioners of the Sedalia 12-Mile Special Road District

December 31, 1953

Honorable Commissioners:

Submitted herewith for your approval is a report of work accomplished and disbursements for the year, 1953, by the Sedalia 12-Mile Special Road District.

In addition to our regular maintenance of all roads, city streets and bridges in the district, he have made the following other improvements:

2 newly constructed streets west of Liberty Park were built with 6" gravel base and 2" black-top mat.

About 7½ miles of black-top roads in the rural district were completed.

Approximately 20 miles of seal-coat on old roads made.

5 miles of road were reconstructed and re-graveled.

12 miles of roads had fence-lines and ditches graded or road-side improvements made.

Approximately 9500 yards of rock and gravel were used in maintenance and repair of gravel roads in the District. We have stock-piled about 6000 yards surfacing gravel and 4410 yards pea gravel which meet the State's specifications.

10 miles of brush were cleared and weeds were mowed regularly on all roads.

Approximately 50 culverts and farm entrances were constructed with tile and box culverts.

New equipment purchased included 1 highway D-7 Caterpillar Tractor and Bulldozer.

The Twelve-Mile Special Road District greatly appreciates the cooperation of all landowners who have helped to make it possible to accomplish these road improvements in the year.

As Superintendent I wish to express by thanks to the Board for their kind cooperation during the year.

WM. McGEE, Supt.

Albert Newman Heads US Crop Program Here

Albert W. Newman, 523 West Third, salesman with the Askew Motor Co., has been named to head the new federal crop insurance office in Pettis County.

Formerly this work was assigned to the three-man Production and Marketing Administration committee. George Hughes, manager of the crop insurance headquarters office in Springfield, said the change grew out of reorganization of the Agriculture Department.

Under the policy effective Jan. 1, either a commercial insurance agent or an individual farmer sells the insurance and handles premium payments, notices of crop losses and other services.

The Springfield office processes applications for insurance, loss claims and acreage reports for the three states.

Hughes said that agents in individual counties receive a commission for selling and overall services. He said the agent's earnings are in proportion to the number of policies he sells and the amount of premiums received within a county.

The federal crop insurance program insures farmers against unavoidable cause of crop losses, such as from weather, insects and plant disease.

Newman's office is located at 209½ South Ohio, just down the second floor hallway from the PMA office. It is open five days a week, Monday through Friday, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. His daughter, Miss Martha Newman, is secretary.

Optimistic Over Middle East Alliance

WASHINGTON —American officials were reported more optimistic today than in some time over prospects for a Middle East defense alliance, despite political upheavals in Syria and Egypt.

While these countries are not envisioned as part of a defense chain to ring Russia's southern border, their affairs naturally influence the actions of their neighbors.

The council of 13 young army officers who rule Egypt made a point of announcing there would be no change in Egypt's friendly attitude toward the West. This backed up a State Department estimate that the ouser of Mohammed Naguib as president-premier was an "internal affair" only.

There was no ready interpretation of fast-breaking developments in Syria. A military coup there forced the resignation of Adib Shishekly, who has survived 26 assassination attempts while ruling with an iron hand for three years.

The big news from the standpoint of the proposed Middle East alliance, was President Eisenhower's announcement yesterday of U.S. military aid for Pakistan.

Eisenhower was careful to notify India's Prime Minister Nehru in a letter obviously intended to avoid any further ruffling of Nehru's oft-voiced sensitivity toward arms for the Near East.

Nehru has campaigned long and hard against military aid for Pakistan or any other country of the region. He argues this will upset the balance of peace.

But American officials were understood to feel that, having had his say, he may ease his criticisms now that they failed to block Pakistan arms aid. The Indian leader has said he will not move toward communism in anger but will continue his efforts to weld a neutral buffer bloc between the East and West.

At Karachi, Prime Minister Mohammed Ali said Pakistan has pledged "not to engage in any act of aggression against any nation." He added that the United States has not asked for bases or other concessions.

At London, a Foreign Office spokesman said the British, "being convinced that the grant of aid is designed to strengthen the defense of the free world, believe that it will not be detrimental to India's defense."

As yet, there was no official comment from New Delhi but it was speculated there Nehru might discuss the matter in Parliament today.

Speculation on the amount of military aid to Pakistan has run to between 25 and 50 million dollars. But officials said no figures are firm until a military survey team goes to Pakistan and determines the country's needs.

Eisenhower also emphasized the recent Pakistan-Turkey agreement to form an alliance with an "open end," that is, open to other Near East nations. The United States has given strong behind-the-scenes support to Pakistan-Turkey negotiations while maintaining an official hands-off attitude.

Pakistan and Turkey, along with Iran, Iraq and Saudi Arabia, comprise the five-nation defense chain that is contemplated. Iran and Saudi Arabia, weighed with domestic woes, are not considered likely to join any time soon. But officials said today Iraq may come in within a year.

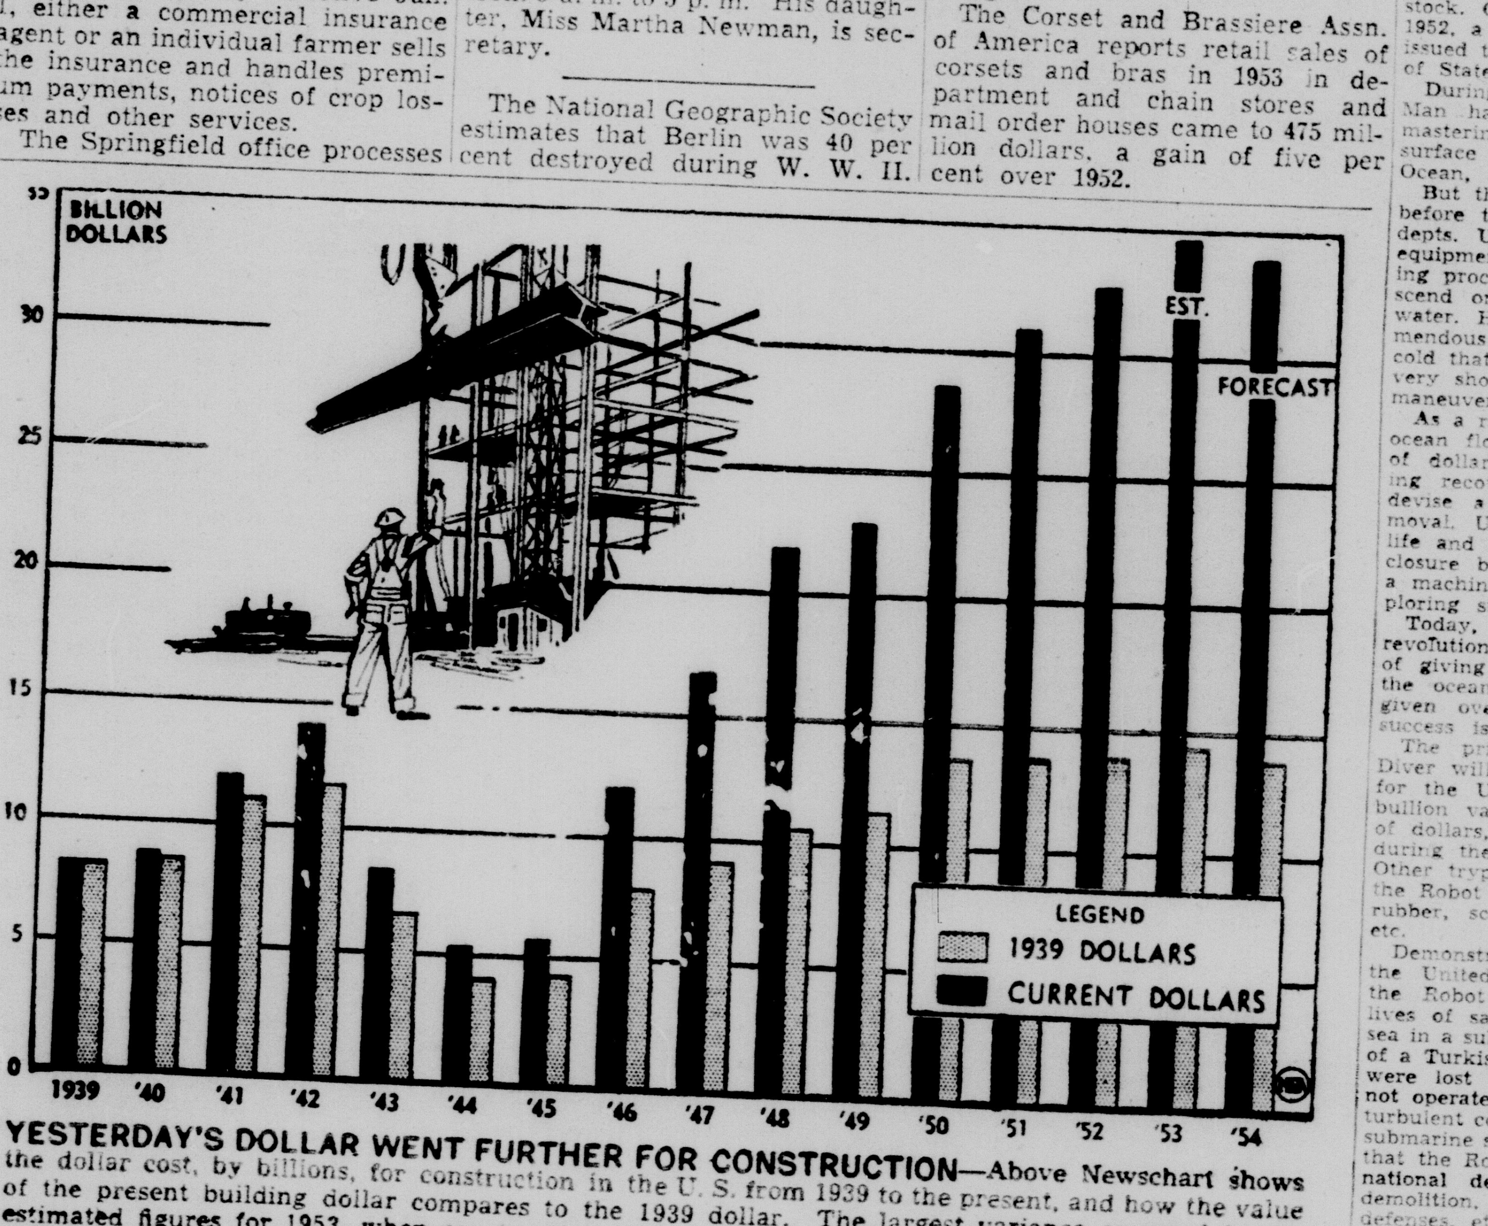
American officials have not ruled out the possibility of Egypt's eventually joining a Near East anti-Red alliance. But that will have to wait, they say, until a settlement of Egypt's dispute with Britain over control of Suez Canal bases.

Foundation Industry Has Increased Sales

NEW YORK (AP) — The growing number of working wives is an unmixed blessing to one industry. As you might gues., the industry deals with their looks.

Women feel the need to look smarter when they leave the privacy of the home and go to work. The foundation garment industry says this is one reason it has grown faster in recent years than either the population of the United States or the purchasing power of consumers. In other words, more women are buying more of its products and saving on other things.

The Corset and Brassiere Assn. of America reports retail sales of corsets and bras in 1953 in department and chain stores and mail order houses came to 475 million dollars, a gain of five per cent over 1952.



YESTERDAY'S DOLLAR WENT FURTHER FOR CONSTRUCTION—Above Newschart shows the dollar cost, by billions, for construction in the U. S. from 1939 to the present, and how the value of the present building dollar compares to the 1939 dollar. The largest variance occurred in the estimated figures for 1953, when construction cost approached the $35 billion mark. In terms of the 1939 dollar it was worth approximately $14 billion. Availability Of Polio Shot Is Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) —Two officials of the Office of Defense Mobilization (ODM) said today gamma globulin will be available for use against polio this summer despite a somewhat inconclusive report on its effectiveness last summer.

Stressing that their statement does not imply criticism of that report, the officials said ODM, which administered distribution of the material last summer under a rationing system, had not yet determined what role it will play this year.

Dr. A. B. Price and Joseph E. Brown of ODM's health resources staff said in a joint interview:

"ODM is prepared to continue administering the distribution of Gamma globulin for polio this summer, provided a satisfactory plan is agreed upon among officials of the ODM, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and the Association of State and Territorial Health Officers who are planning to discuss the subject early in March.

"But even if, for any reason, ODM should decide there is no longer a need for it to administer the program, there would be no reason . . . why gamma globlin could not be distributed by the foundation and the Red Cross and used by doctors as they see fit."

Dr. Price and Brown made the comments in reply to questions as to what effect, if any, a recent report by a committee of polio experts who evaluated gamma globulin's use last summer would have on future plans of the government.

The committee of polio experts —appointed by the U. S. Public Health Service—reported on Monday "beneficial effects were not demonstrated" from the material as used last summer.

DEEP WATER ROBOT
(Pat. Pending)

A REMOTE CONTROL MECHANICAL MEANS OF DEEP WATER EXPLORATION AND SALVAGE WORK

DESIGNED: To circumvent the human element in extreme pressures of deep water exploration.

To propel, lift and lower itself to great depts in the sea by self contained power units.

To televise a continuous picture of surroundings to the operators viewing screen in the control room.

To operate the cutting torch and various tools required in deep water salvage work.

To operate by remote control through a conduit cable connecting Robot and control board on the mother ship.

The Deep Water Robot is immune to many of the hazards that confront the deep sea diver. The shark, the octopus, strong currents or broken air lines do not obstruct its performance. The Robot provides a safe, efficient means of deep sea salvage operations and can work twenty-four hours a day at depths far below the reach of the human diver. Tools attached to the working arms can be interchanged to perform numerous tasks, thus making salvaging operations feasible that were heretofore impossible to perform.

ROBOT DIVER, INCORPORATED

This is not an offer for public sale. Offer for sale by official prospectus only. Prospectus may be obtained by request from this company.

6,666 SHARES COMMON STOCK
(PAR VALUE $15.00 PER SHARE)

These securities have been registered and approved for public sale by means of official Prospectus with the Secretary of State, Dept. of Securities, State of Missouri.

Robot Diver, Inc., hereinafter sometimes referred to as the "Company" or "Robot Diver" has its office and shop at 109 Hardesty Ave., Kansas City, Missouri. The enterprise was started as a corporation in 1952, by William E. Denny, now President of the Company, the Articles of Incorporation being dated the eighth day of August, 1952, and being signed by William E. Denny, A. A. Krogsdale, and Fred F. Bake, as subscribers to the shares of stock. On the eleventh day of August, 1952, a certificate of Incorporation was issued to the Company by the Secretary of State of Missouri.

During the coure of many centuries, Man has made tremendous strides in mastering the forces of Nature upon the surface of the earth, the surface of the Ocean, and in the air surrounding us.

But thus far, Man is almost impotent before the infinite power of the ocean depts. Using presently available diving equipment and current standard operating procedures, a human dvier can descend only a few hundred feet under water. He must work under such tremendous air pressure and in water so cold that he can stay submerged only a very short period of time. His field of maneuverability is limited very greatly.

As a result, countless ships lie on the ocean floors, containing untold millions of dollars of salvageable cargo awaiting recovery by the person who can devise a revolutionary method of removal. Unfathomable secrets of marine life and of the ocean floors await disclosure by the person who can invent a machine capable of reaching and exploring such mysteries.

Today, there is in existence such a revolutionary device which is capable of giving Man the same mastery over the ocean depths as the airplane has given over space. This key to such success is the Robot Diver.

The primary purpose of the Robot Diver will be to locate and to reclaim for the United States, gold and silver bullion valued at hundreds of millions of dollars, which has been lost at sea during the many centuries of the past. Other trypes of valuable cargoes which the Robot Diver will search for are oil, rubber, scarce metals, iron and steel, etc.

Demonstrations will be conducted for the United States Navy to show that the Robot Diver will help in saving lives of sailors who might be sunk at sea in a submarine. In the recent sinking of a Turkish submarine, all lives aboard were lost because human divers could not operate at the depth and under the turbulent conditions prevailing where the submarine sank. We can also demonstrate that the Robot Diver has other uses for national defense such as: underwater demolition, destruction of enemy harbor defenses, etc.

For all of the purposes mentioned above the Robot Diver is the logical and practicable means of attaining such goals.

The first salvages by the Robot Diver will be made upon ships sunk during the war in the Gulf of Mexico. There were 350 ships sunk containing oil and other merchantable cargoes. We plan to raise by means of the Robot Diver, small enemy craft sunk during the war for the salvage of copper, steel and other metals.

The first gold salvage by the Robot Diver will be made upon a steel ship which sank some thirty miles off the coast of Rhode Island, while carrying gold bullion valued at three million dollars. About two years ago, human divers made an unsuccessful attempt to salvage this gold ship, but conditions which the Robot Diver can overcome caused the human divers to fail.

The next salvage operation will be on the H. M. S. Hampshire off the Irish coast. The ship contains $9,260,000 and lies in 450 feet of water. Next will be the Santa Cecelia, off the Juan Fernandez Islands. It had $5,000,000 aboard when it sank. The next two salvages will be the liner Merida with $5,000,000 and the S. S. Central America with $7,000,000.

That will make a total return to this corporation of $29,260,000 for the first five gold salvages. The operational cost will be very small and the time consumed would be short and fast moving. Then we will move in to salvage such as the $121,000,000 off the cosat of Brazil. Of course those will be more difficult but we will have the experience of the easier and more shallow water salvages.

However, the sunken treasures and merchantable cargoes that are salvaged will not be the source of most of the dividends paid by this corporation. The Marine insurance business that the Robot Diver makes possible will run into billions of dollars in insurance premiums. In the near future when a ship sinks, this company will be able to raise and return the ship to its owners, by means of the Robot Divers. In the meantime, the ship owners will be paying billions of dollars to Lloyds of London for insurance premiums which will be underwritten by this corporation. So the returns from one share of stock in this company will be enormous.

We plan to use an LCI for our operations ship. It is 158 feet long and has a 4000 mile cruising range. It is a 400 ton vessel and will weather any storms of the seven seas.

The engineering and technical aspects of our entire operation are practical and sound, which seems to indicate success in this enterprise. We do not expect to be entirely free from obtacles to this success but such obtacles will not be insurmountable or even severe. The most difficult part, that of the original development, fabrication, testing and revising the original design as a result of the test, is complete. We expect to be engaged in our first salvage operation at an early date.

Jefferson, Broadway Win In Tournament

Thursday afternoon, the Jefferson School basketball squad easily defeated the Washington School team, 47-19. Jefferson led the entire contest as Washington failed to score more than six points in any quarter of the game.

Garrison led the victors in the scoring department with a total of 33 points. Christian was high for the Washintgon team with 12 of the 19 points scored.

In the Mark Twain and Broadway game, a very hard fought battle resulted in Broadway's winning, 22-21. The Mark Twain team led almost the entire contest but the red-hot Broadway team came from behind to tally nine points in the last quarter to win by one point.

Dotson was the high scoring individual on the Broadway crew with 9 points. Dotson was followed in the well balanced scoring attack by Coffey with 7 points. Mark Twain had two boys, Lamy and Rust, who had seven points each.

In the volleyball contest of the afternoon, Washington defeated the Mark Twain girls, 27-18. The game was a tight one until the last five minutes of the game when the Washington girls ran away with the score. The Washington win gives the girls from that school the right to play the Horace Mann girls team for the volleyball championship. Mark Twain's girls will play the Whittier volleyball team at 7 p. m. Friday for third place.

Officials who have officiated the games of the Sedalia Grade School Basketball Tournament are three Smith - Cotton athletic coaches, Howard Glavin, Pete Brown, and Forrest Arnall.

Hal Boyle's Column---

Helen Traubel Thinks People Are Giving Confidence Vote

By SAUL PETT
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP)—Helen Traubel, part owner of a baseball team and full owner of a great Wagnerian operatic voice, has taken her case to the people and the people, she feels, have given her a vote of confidence.

Last September the red-haired soprano refused to sign another contract with the Metropolitan Opera rather than knuckle down to a demand that she refrain from night club appearances during her own season at the Met.

Instead, she went out on a six-month tour of both concert halls and cafes. In the night clubs, Miss Traubel, who for years has been one of the Met's leading divas, usually shared a bill with a comedian, dance team and the inevitable chorus line.

"It was simply wonderful," she said at her Park Avenue apartment while resting up for an appearance at the Copacabana. "I knew it would be right and it was.

"Basically, people's tastes are the same, whether they're in an opera house or night club. But in a club, they're less formal, more spontaneous, perhaps friendlier. You feel so close to them."

In her many years as a prima donna, Mme. Traubel was accustomed to hearing shouts of "bravo" and "encore." But in the clubs she's just visited, she heard: "Do it again, Helen!" or: ' Give us another tune, Helen!"

At a club in St. Louis, she says, she ran into something which began to resemble a pep rally. After one number, a man at a ringside table stood up and led a cheering section.

"We loved her at the met, now didn't we?" the cheerleader said. The crowd roared its approval. "But we love her even more in a night club, now don't we?" the man said. The applause was even louder.

In all her cafe appearances, Miss Traubel spiced her classical repertoire with popular songs. She even developed a line of patter to go with them. In introducing one song, she grows very serious and demure and says:

"I hope the lovers of popular music will be a little patient with me if I do something in a more serious vein. I'd like to sing an ancient folk aria which is sung by the peasants of my native village."

And then the house is brought down when she breaks into "St. Louis Blues."

Miss Traubel said she was surprised that so many of the requests shouted from the floor were for classical pieces as well as things like "No Other Love" and "Take Me Out to the Ball Game." She couldn't fulfill some requests —like the "Immolation" scene from "Gotterdammergun" or the "Liebestod" from "Isolde," each of which involves at least 15 minutes of straight singing.

Miss Traubel said she encountered no trouble with drunks or hecklers.

"Oh, now and then, I could hear people talking," she said. "but that was fine with me. After all, people come to a restaurant to eat, drink and enjoy each other's company. And anyway, it's up to me to make them stop talking. But mostly they were quiet and polite."

In Miami, she did so well at a night club that someone arranged a "Helen Traubel" day at the Hialeah race track. She got to award the winner of the seventh a wreath of flowers and "was thrilled to do it despite the fact that I had bet on another horse."

After three weeks in New York, Miss Traubel will leave on another tour of night clubs and concert halls. She has no plans for returning to the Met "under the present management." And as for baseball, she admits that now that the Browns have moved from St. Louis and become the Baltimore Orioles, she has less of a sentimental interest in the club.

I got the impression you could pick up her stock for a song—say, "White Christmas" and all the royalty rights attached thereto.

Ranch Owner Tells Kiwanis About Rodeos

Harry B. Nelson, of the J-Bar-H Ranch in Camdenton, was guest speaker at the Kiwanis meeting Thursday noon at the Bothwell hotel. He was introduced by Floyd Dillion, program chairman.

He explained to the members the problems of organizing the rodeo he presents there every year July 7-11, and stated that attendance is increasing annually. Last year, he said, the rodeo drew a crowd of 41,500.

After his talk, he presented a 30-minute film of scenes taken from last year's rodeo.

The meeting was conducted by L. A. Pharris, who brought the club up to date on developments of Sedalia Pancake Day, to be held March 15. He also explained the part that Kiwanis is to have in it.

Kiwanian H. Lent, Boonville, was a guest Thursday.

Board members and committee chairmen met Friday noon at the Bothwell Hotel.

DiMaggio Sees Raschi A Consistent Winner

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Joe DiMaggio predicts Vic Raschi, New York Yankee pitcher sold to the St. Louis Cards, "will be a consistent winner" this season.

DiMaggio, former Yankee star outfielder, added "I doubt very much that Vic is washed up.

"I can't understand the deal at all. It was reassuring to play behind Raschi. Day in, day out, he's just about tops."

Peter Edson's Column—

Women's Groups Split Over U. S. Withdrawal from UN

By Peter Edson

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — There's an awful lot of little-known background that has to be fully considered in understanding an anti-United Nations resolution passed by the "Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defense" at its recent Washington convention. The resolution urged that Congress take swift action to withdraw the United States from the United Nations before the UN charter is revised in 1955. The insinuation was that if something wasn't done before then, it might be too late for the U.S. to get out, ever.

There were some 250 militant, crusading women delegates at this meeting, representing 27 super-patriotic organizations. Among them are the American Gold Star Sisters, Blue Star Mothers, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, Wheel of Progress and several regional groups like the Women Descendants of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston.

In general, this group is characterized as "considerably to the right of the Daughters of the American Revolution."

Two years ago this Women's Patriotic Conference split with the "Women's Forum on National Security" after one of the grandest fights the girls ever got into.

The original Women's Conference was organized 28 years ago by the women's auxiliaries of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, AmVets and Jewish War Veterans, plus the Gold Star Mothers and a few others. It was frankly and openly a women's lobby to promote greater interest in national defense and to support the legislative programs of the veterans' organizations.

One Vote Each

In the Conference, which was to be the coordinating group for all the women's patriotic societies, each organization was given one vote. This made the million-member American Legion Auxiliary no more important, with no more voice or influence on Forum policies than many of the fringe groups with membership in the hundreds or low thousands.

At the 1952 convention in Washington, all these smaller organizations ganged up on the bigger Legion, VFW and AmVet organizations. The more numerous but smaller groups claimed that the fewer but larger organizations were "too radical," too "pro-Dean Acheson," and too "world-government minded."

This was, to say the least, news and something of a shock to the Legion spokesmen. From its very beginning, the Legion has been a leader in the drive to clean Communists and radicals out of government. It was most critical of former Secretary of State Dean Acheson. And it has opposed all world-government ideas.

The Legion has criticized the UN for its faults and urged that it be made better. The Legion has supported the idea that the United States stay in the UN, working for its reform from within rather than destroying it from without.

Conference Was Split

This is the issue, however, on which the women's patriotic groups split. Significantly, one of the masterminds of this split was Don R. Wilson of Detroit, a former Legion national commander who had led a fight within the Legion urging removal of Dean Acheson as Secretary of State. Mr. Wilson—formerly a Democrat, now a Republican—is a law partner of former Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson. Mr. Wilson is the man who thought he had the job as chief counsel of Senator Jenner's Internal Security Subcommittee all sewed up for himself, but didn't get it.

Anyway, this is how it happens that there are now two women's lobbies on national defense, instead of one united group.

The larger, stronger Women's Forum met in Washington the last week in January. It was addressed by Secretary of Defense C. E. Wilson and other Eisenhower administration officials. In general, the Women's Forum passed resolutions endorsing the principles of the bi-partisan foreign and defense policies, with plenty of support for big U.S. armed forces and appropriations. They adjourned quietly and went home.

The extreme right-wingers in the Women's Patriotic met in Washington a week later. Their keynoter was Senate Republican Majority Leader William F. Knowland of California. He criticized the UN for its performance in Korea. Right after that came the voice vote of the ladies—with only a couple of weak "nays" — urging Congress to pull the U.S. out of the UN.

No Water Or People

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, illustrating the importance of water in the western plains states from which he himself comes, told this story to a Columbus, Neb., audience the other day:

'A thirsty travler, passing this way early in the history of Nebraska, saw a house and went over to get water. The house was deserted. But there was a well nearby with a bucket and windlass. The traveler let down the bucket. He brought it up empty. He tried again—same result. Then he noticed a sign on the house. It read:

' 'This Claim for Sale. Four miles to the nearest neighbor. Seven miles to the nearest schoolhouse. Fourteen miles to the nearest town. Two hundred feet down to the nearest water. God bless our home.' "

Steaks and Parks

Buffalo and elk steaks, identified by a small label on every plate, were served to congressmen, Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay and other officials at a dinner given by the American Automobile Assn. and its preseident, Ralph Thomas. The meat was donated by the state of South Dakota. The tags enabled the guests to decide which they liked better.

Main purpose of the gathering, aside from the free food, was to enable A. A. A. President Thomas to put over the idea that U. S. National Parks were in poor condition for tourists. In reply, Secretary McKay insisted that, "There's nothing wrong with our parks that money can't fix," but that the defense and economy budgets had to come first.

Outlawing Communist Party Will Not Affect Civil Rights

By Bruce Biossat

Under the Smith Act, some 60 top Communist leaders have been convicted of conspiring to teach and advocate the overthrow of the United States government. But there are some who think this law is insufficient. They believe the Communist Party should be outlawed in America.

In order to convict three-score Communists chieftains, the Justice Department had to build, in effect, 60 individual cases specifically proving conspiracy. Yet, oddly enough, to do that required demonstrating in every instance that the Communist Party itself is a conspiratorial organization and nothing else.

Even though this has now been proved again and again to the satisfaction of judge and jury, the courts do not accept membership in the Communist party as automatic evidence of conspiracy. The law requires that it be established specifically in each case.

Those who urge outlawing the party believe it would have the effect of making mere membership flat evidence of conspiracy against the U.S. Outlawry would forewarn anyone from joining the party who did not wish to run the risk of being trapped as a conspirator.

It would make clear to all citizens once and for all that the Communist party is not to be viewed as an ordinary political organization operating within the framework of the democratic process. The Communists would use the ballot only to gain power to destroy the ballot.

Critics of the outlawry plan argue, for one thing, that it would drive the Reds underground. The truth is they have always been there. The real conspiratorial heart of U.S. communism has never been exposed to public gaze. The facade erected above ground has been deliberately designed to deceive and mislead.

Since the first of the Smith Act convictions, much of the surface trappings have disappeared, too. Outlawing the party would not make a great deal of difference.

It is also contended that to ban the party would be to interfere with free speech. But Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, Maine Republican, would spell out in her outlawry bill that there was no intent to suppress discussion of Communist ideas as such.

Obviously we could not and do not intend to shut off discussion of anything under the sun. To try would be to introduce thought control.

We want to hear about communism, what it purports to offer, what its system of thinking is. If we believe in the deep values of freedom, we cannot fear that our democratic approach will suffer in competition. On the other hand, if we do not study rival systems, how can we know how best to combat them and preserve our own?

But, as we have said, outlawing the Communist party, labeling it for the conspiracy it is, marking it as the agent of a foreign power, need not affect these fundamental civil privileges.

Slowing Bodily Processes Should Be Taken In Stride

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

Several readers have asked for a discussion of the problems peculiar to what is known as middle age.

The division of life into childhood, youth, middle age, and old age is an abritrary one. Actually, aging is a gradual process, beginning at birth, and the health problems connected with each so-called period of life differ only slightly from those of the next younger group.

In general, however, there are some differences between the physical qualities and needs of those at different ages. An 18-year-old boy can ordinarily run a mile without physical trouble, but no man in his right senses, who had not kept in strict training, would do this in his fifties. The same kind of thing is also true with women.

More sleep is often needed by the person in the late thirties or early forties than in the early twenties. Other things are in proportion. This should not be considered abnormal. The body merely needs more rest and time to restore its powers.

One correspondent wrote that she was 47, and although married and having children, held a responsible office position. She stated that she sometimes found it more difficult to keep up with fast dictation than it had been some years before. Now this, too, is probably no reflection of disease.

With two teen-age boys and other ressponsibilities of a household, and having presumably worked hard for many years, it is certainly not surprising that she should show some fatigue at such an exacting task as the taking of rapid dictation. The solution, which might not be practical, would be to stop trying to do so much.

Vital Processes Slower

In a brief discussion such as this it is merely possible to scratch the surface of the many and complicated problems which may face the person in the so-called middle years of life. In general, it can only be said that even in the absence of any disease, there is a slowing down of the vital processes as one ages.

This is no matter for great grief and merely means understanding and adjustment to slightly different physical capacities. The middle-aged man or woman who behaves like a 20-year-old is both a little silly and a little foolish.

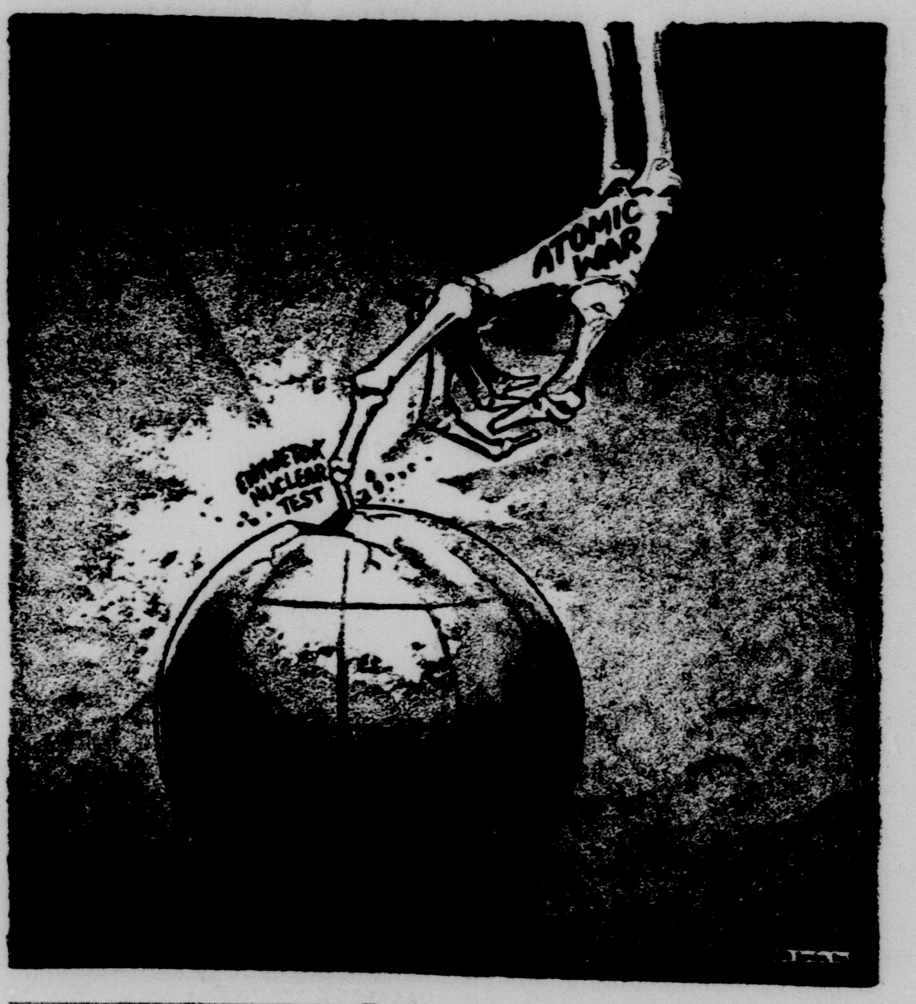
No Work, No Pay

The forced resignation of Dr. Clarence Manion as head of the President's Commission on Intergovernmental Relations has stirred some to declare that his freedom of speech has, in effect, been abridged. Manion made a great many speeches in recent months for the Bricker amendment, which President Eisenhower opposes.

But a close look seems to indicate Manion was fired because he wasn't doing any work with his commission. It had held but five meetings since he was named Sept. 4.

Certainly the President has no right to command Manion's thoughts. But he should have been able to count on him doing his job, and evidently he was not.

Just Scratching the Surface



The World Today—

Stevens Slips In His Method

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—"I guess," said Robert F. Stevens, secretary of the Army, "I didn't handle it too well."

That was how he summed up his fight with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis). This was how he handled it:

McCarthy demanded two things:

1. The names of Army people who investigated Maj. Irving Peress and gave him an honorable discharge. McCarthy calls Peress a "Fifth Amendment Communist;" Peress says McCarthy talks "utter nonsense" about him.

2. Appearance as witnesses of two generals connected with the Peress case, although remotely. Stevens ordered the generals to disregard subpoenas for their appearance after, he said, McCarthy had "abused" one of them.

Stevens says he wanted assurance McCarthy would not "abuse" officers who came before him. In fact, he had told the generals to stand back while he tackled McCarthy on this point in a public hearing that had been scheduled for yesterday.

The hearing was called off Wednesday after Stevens spent two hours behind doors with McCarthy and three Republicans in his subcommittee: Senators Mundt, South Dakota; Dirksen, Illinois; and Potter, Michigan.

At the end of the session, with Stevens and McCarthy listening, Mundt read to newsmen what he called a "memorandum of understanding."

It was completely and obviously one-sided. It gave McCarthy everything he wanted: he would get the names of those who investigated Peress and could not only question them but the generals too. It gave Stevens nothing.

Stevens said later, when he was back in the Pentagon, he had assurances from members of the subcommittee—he didn't say assurances from McCarthy himself —"that they will not permit such conditions to develop in the future."

He meant they agreed no Army people would be "abused." But there was no such agreement in writing. What McCarthy wanted, he got in writing. This "memorandum" read by Mundt could be considered a contract.

Stevens has had a lot of experience with contracts. He was head of a big textile firm, board chairman of a bank, and a member of the boards of directors of some of the biggest corporations in America.

He heard the memorandum read but offered no objection. He went from there back to the Pentagon.

There newsmen asked him if he had retreated when he met McCarthy face to face. He replied that he did not consider himself a "person who capitulates." That was when he made his first suggestion that there was a part of the "memorandum" not in writing.

He said he had "every reason to believe Army personnel will not be abused by the committee" in the future. Wednesday night he began calling members of President Eisenhower's White House staff.

By then he had time to get a reaction from inside and outside the Pentagon: a very widespread view he had surrendered to McCarthy; that he had talked tough but not when the showdown came.

Before noon yesterday he was reportedly very upset by the general impression he had caved in. The Washington Star, for instance, on the front page, said Army morale was shot to pieces by his performance.

Late in the day, according to some of the senators who had sat in with Stevens and McCarthy, the Army secretary wanted to make an addition in writing to the "memorandum" issued the day before. In effect, they said, he wanted them to agree no witness before their committee would be "abused."

He got no such document. McCarthy said later any such agreement would be an admission witnesses had been abused in the past, which he denied had been done.

Finally, Stevens got tough again. He issued a statement, backed by the White House, which said he had not surrendered and that:

If any Army people are abused in the future, "I shall once again take all steps" [illegible] to protect them. And he added: "From ass[illegible]d from members of the subcommittee, I am confident that they will not permit such conditions to develop in the future."

Immediately McCarthy said it was "completely false" for Stevens to say he had such assurances. "Absolutely no concession was made that any witness was abused," McCarthy said.

MARRATT'S mind, sitting in judgment, rebelled against the irony of spending his life in prison for what he had done to Hugh Clagg because of Charlie while Clagg's partner, meriting a like fate, went his way untouched and unrepentant because he happened to be the father of Naome. It was too much to ask of human nature.

Marratt's mind, sitting in judgment, rebelled away with him and, crouching beside the spring where he was camped, proceeded to clean his face of whiskers. He left only the roan patch of a mustache, having generally worn one before his trouble with Clagg.

While he was hunting his pockets for the rest of the checks assembled by Naome from the reservation files he came across the badge he had taken off Hanna; and he held quiet for an interval morosely considering it. Only this bent piece of metal had stood between himself and a hole in the ground when Crafkin's lead had hammered him into the grass of Jake's dooryard.

Better, Marratt thought bitterly, to have croaked then and there than be faced with a future cursed with memories of a girl who could never be more to him than she had. For, no matter what course he finally took with her father, he could not ask Naome to share the fate of a brush-running fugitive. And there was nothing else in the cards for Grete Marratt but Yuma.

He cocked a look at the sky and loosed a long breath that must have come pretty near up from his bootheels. He checked over the loads in his pistol, reckoning he might just as well get about it.

He knew where to find Ryerson, had been nursing this knowledge for the past 30 hours. Before he'd turned south away from Usher's that day he had lifted a pair of high-powered binoculars from Crafkin's saddle, and with these he had kept Naome's movements under constant surveillance till he'd found the man holed-up at Straddle Bug, one of the spreads which Ryerson, through Crafkin, had taken over. No crew was being maintained there and Naome herself had ridden off about an hour ago.

He cinched the hull on the gray and thrust a boot in the stirrup. Funny, he mused, how things kept coming back to you; little things, insignificant trifles which a man ought long ago to have forgotten. The weary lift of tired eyes across the length of a store porch . . . the tremulous shape of a girl's twisted smile.

Marratt growled and ground his teeth, then slammed the horse into action.

• • •

RAISING a spurless heel above the horn of his saddle Marratt dropped to earth with eyes bleak as a gun fighter's. He loosened the weight that was sagging his shell belt and stepped onto the veranda, hollow sound rumbling out of the planks as he moved doorward — sound which fled into the hard stillness around him.

The paintless door was pulled open with a groan from dry hinges and Ryerson's face was staring into his own. The man had aged 10 years since that day on the store porch. "You needn't worry," Marratt said. "I didn't come here to kill you."

The ranchman's eyes smiled tiredly. "I didn't suppose you had." He stepped back from the door. "Come in, Marratt. I've been expecting you."

Marratt looked at him suspiciously. "I imagine so," he said grimly, and raked his glance about warily as he followed the man down an uncarpeted hall.

Turning into what had evidently been the ranch office, Ryerson motioned to a chair and dropped into another behind a desk that was cluttered with papers. "You didn't hear from my daughter?"

"I've been camped in the hills ever since that fight."

"She left a couple notes at Usher's asking you to come here."

"Did she tell you my name was Marratt?"

Ryerson nodded. "But I had already placed you. You'll remember I called you 'Luke' that day in town. I supposed you were Luke; as such I could understand your refusal to shake and the terrible look which flashed out of your eyes when you advised me the next time we met to be armed. Riding home, however, I recalled a picture I had once come across in a paper about a killing in Prescott."

"Then you admit to having been there?"

• • •

THE ranchman stared at him curiously. "Of course I've been to Prescott. As it happens, I was there just before you came to trial." Ryerson's voice and features expressed bewilderment. "Now you're looking as you did that day in Bella Loma."

"How did you expect me to look?"

"I don't get it," Ryerson said. "Why should you look as if killing me would give you pleasure? You're not Luke Usher."

"This will freshen up your memory," Marratt drawled and he recounted the story as he had gotten it from Charlie.

"So that was the way of it. . . . I don't wonder you killed Clagg, but to spend five years in Yuma . . ." he shook his head. "And all this time you've been thinking I—'

"Do you deny it?"

"Certainly. Most vigorously. I wasn't within miles of the place."

"The girl described you as Clagg's partner."

THE MAN and his little four-year-old boy were sitting in the car down on Ohio when a woman who works in the office with him went by with her husband and her little girl about the age of the little boy.

The little girl was dressed up like a little cowgirl and the man waved at them. The little boy raised his hand a little to wave, but the little girl paid no attention to him.

"Did you see the little girl dressed like a cowgirl?" asked the father.

"Yes," said the little boy, "but she didn't speak to me."

"She didn't know you," said the father. "You dont know her, do you?"

"No, but I'll have to meet her—sometime."

"Yes, you will," said the father, but was a little taken back when the boy added: "When she gets a little bigger."—H.L.

A well-known Sedalia man, who belongs to one of the civic clubs but is irregular in his attendance at the club because he is out-of-town so much, happened to be in town and thought he would go to the noon meeting.

He did, and he was a bit late, but slipped in and sat down at one of the tables.

"My," he thought as he glanced about him, "There are certainly a lot of visitors here today." Then he made a discovery. He was at the meeting of the wrong club. His club met the day before.

Well, since he was there, he thought he might as well stay and enjoy the meeting. And he did just as if he belonged there.—H.L.

THE COUPLE were doing over the apartment that a family had just moved from and they were going to paint the kitchen green. When they opened the paint it was a lettuce green.

"Oh," said the woman, "That is a terrible shade of green. I wouldn't want to put that on — why it's lettuce green—that color makes me sick."

They were ready to paint and the husband didn't see what they could do about it. But women have ideas and this one certainly had one which sounded mighty crazy to her husband.

"I think I will put some cake coloring in it" she said.

"Cake coloring?" he echoed and almost anyone can imagine what would go through his mind—cake coloring in paint.

It is amazing what women can do with things they have at hand, such as hairpins and cake coloring. She put in the coloring and the paint became a beautiful soft shade of green. It looked just lovely on the walls.

It worked fine- but now the husband is worried. There is another can of paint needed and he wonders how she is going to manage to get the same amount of cake coloring in the next can to make the paint the same shade.

But she isn't worried, the next can is the second coat of paint and if it isn't exactly the same shade as the first coat she doesn't care, just as long as it isn't lettuce green she thinks she will be able to have a pretty nice looking kitchen.

Bob Thomas In Hollywood--

Greer Garson Will Leave Make Believe World After 15 Years

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Make - believe is a wonderful thing, and I've loved it. I think it's good to devote 10 or 12 years of one's life to it, but now I want time for other things."

This was the philosophy of Greer Garson, who will end her MGM contract next Monday. She looks back on nearly 15 years with the studio, many of them fairly fabulous.

After first winning attention as Mrs. Chips, she went on to a string of hit pictures. At least four were among the top moneymakers of all time. "Mrs. Miniver" earned a domestic gross of five million, "Random Harvest" and "Adventure" 4½ million apiece and "Valley of Decision" 4¼ million.

In recent years, her films haven't been up to that standard, and she says that was part of the reason for leaving the studio. She detailed the reasons as she reclined beside the swimming pool of her sumptuous home:

"It's no secret that I haven't been happy with the kind of pictures I have been receiving lately. The fact is that the studio is not making the big, romantic type of picture which was my particular forte.

"They are concentrating on other things—musical spectacles, pictures showing the training of young men for battle and big adventure epics made in foreign lands. I don't sing and dance with any great proficiency, and I don't fit into the second type of picture. As for the films made abroad, they often involve being out of the country 10 months or so. I don't feel I should be gone that long from my husband (Texas moneyman Buddy Fogelson).

"So we agreed to call off the contract. Actually it would have been up in June anyway. I was to do a picture which was—shall we say — not quite right. It also involved being out of the country, and I didn't relish that, having just gotten back from England."

The orange-haired star did a fine selling job on "Julius Caesar" throughout the Isles. But she wouldn't let her enthusiasm over the trip sway her decision.

"I don't think long-term contracts are especially healthy for actors," she remarked. "They are all right for young players who are striving for a break. After they have made a success in one or two pictures, I think the studio deserves to cash in on what it has built.

"But I have never been for long engagements. Every time I reached the middle of my contract, the studio suggested that I make a new one for another seven years. The last time that happened was when so many of the stars were setting up their own companies. I wanted to be more independent, but my manager advised that the security of a studio contract was better."

Takes Brando's Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Edmund Purdom, a British actor, has been signed for the role in "The Egyptian" which Marlon Brando was to have played. Brando, stating he was ill, departed suddenly for New York during rehearsals for the film.

Hughes' Name In Hayward, Barker Suit

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—The name of Howard Hughes has found its way into the Susan Hayward-Jess Barker divorce case.

Barker testified yesterday that his twin sons, Timothy and Gregory, 9, told him that Hughes had called to see their mother.

"They said that a man who had called at the house to see their mother had been introduced to them as 'Mr. Magic,'" Barker testified. "They told me that he had a long black chin. And when I asked who this man might be, they said: 'His name is Howard Hughes, and he said he was going to take us for an airplane ride, but mother said we should not tell you his name.'"

Recalled to testify later, Miss Hayward explained that Hughes came to her house to discuss script changes in a picture she made for RKO, where he is production chief. She said she introduced him to the children as Mr. Howard and told them: "His name is magic. He flies airplanes and does many things."

The actress denied she told the children not to tell their father of Hughes' visit. She was asked in cross-examination: "Why did he come to your house?"

"He came to take me out," she replied.

Miss Hayward, who testified her income is $17,000 a month, is petitioning for an order to restrain Barker from molesting her, from disposing of any community property, and for custody of the children pending trial of her divorce suit. She alleges mental cruelty.

She testified yesterday that Barker once beat her and tossed her into a swimming pool last July 16. She said her husband dragged her from the house, threw her in the pool, and when she cam up screaming, he pushed her in again.

The actress said she was clad only in a terry cloth bathrobe. She said she had just gotten out of bed. "I sleep in the raw," she explained.

She said that when she did manage to get out of the pool, Barker marched her to her room in the nude. She broke down at this point in her testimony.

Barker, on the stand later, admitted he struck his wife "with my open hand" after she made "derogatory remarks" about him and his mother. He said he ordered her to bed and when she continued to scream he picked her up and dropped her in the pool.

He said he left home for six days, hoping that when they had both cooled off there might be a reconciliation, but it was not forthcoming. He naid he still wants a reconciliation.

P. O. Lifts Dismissal Of Loitering Postman

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Post Office Department said today it had relented in the case of the litering postman.

Asst. Postmaster General N. R. Abrams said a dismissal order against Kenneth S. Soule, Watertown, N.Y., mail carrier, had been lifted, effective Monday.

Soule, a postal employe for 14 years, was dismissed earlier this month on a complaint that he regularly visited at one residence on his route.

A post office check on two successive days disclosed that Soule had stopped at one house for 55 and 23 minutes during the course of his appointed rounds.

Says Youths Need Jobs to Shun Trouble

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Young people need jobs to keep them out of trouble, says a 19-year-old San Francisco State College student, Ernest G. Howard of Oakland, Calif.

"If they're young they can't get jobs," he complained yesterday at the governor's Conference on Children and Youth, attended by more than 2,000 persons.

Discussing juvenile gang delinquency, he said, "The youths, too, are tired of this sort of thing. They'd rather get out and work."

Un-American Activities Committee Gets Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Un-American Activities Committee has a $275,000 appropriation to finance its activities through 1954.

The House voted the money yesterday 362-1. The negative vote was cast by Rep. Wier (D-Minn). Rep. Celler (D-NY) was announced as paired against the measure.

Nehru Visits Pakistani Prime Minister Today

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Arms aid issue or no, Indian Prime Minister Nehru and Pakistani Prime Minister Mohammed Ali smiled in an unscheduled meeting at New Delhi airport today and held a 15-minute chat.

Mohammed Ali termed their talk "proof positive" that India has nothing to fear from the U.S. military aid which President Eisenhower announced yesterday will be granted Pakistan to strengthen her defenses in the interests of the Middle East and "the whole free world."

The Pakistani Prime Minister beamed with surprise as he alighted from a commercial airliner on his way from Karachi to an election campaign in East Pakistan to discover Nehru smiling in greeting.

A few minutes earlier the Indian leader and his daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, had seen Canada's Prime Minister, Louis St. Laurent, take off in his Canadian Air Force plane for Colombo, Ceylon, in a continuation of his world tour.

Mohammed Ali told newsmen the military aid agreement, an issue between India and her Moslem neighbor since its possibility arose months ago, was not discussed in any way during his chat with Nehru in a room at the Palam military airport.

"The very fact that I am here with the Prime Minister of India on this particular morning (after the announcement of American aid) shows our peaceful approach," Mohammed Ali said.

". . . their Democrat-Capital Want Ad said those used cars could be had on your own terms — so he took one!"

Mutton Makes Tradition

BANBURY, England (AP) — One day in 1874 a stranger brought a leg of mutton in the South Bar St. butcher shop. 'Hang it up for me," he said, "until I come back."

He never did come back. The leg of mutton is still hanging there, and that's how tradition are born n Britain.

"It would be like parting with my own leg to get rid of it," was the fond comment recently made by Edwin Walker, present owner of the business. He started in the shop as an apprentice many years ago.

The leg which weighed 13½ pounds in its young muttonhood, is shrunken and wizened now.

"It hangs well away from the salable meat, of course," says the butcher's wife. "But it isn't at all objective and it has never been treated with a preservation."

Indonesia with a population of 83 million claims to be the sixth largest nation in the world.

Great-Grandma Rides Alone

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. — Great-grandma Pearl H. Doremus, 79-years-old, of Mountain Lakes, N. J., has finished another cross-country automobile trip. She said this jaunt, made solo from New Jersey to Santa Barbara raised her 40-year motoring log to 800,000 miles.

Petite and perky Mrs. Doremus came to visit her son at nearby Goleta. But this trip of 3,000 miles was just routine. In 1922, she drove from the Jersey coast to the Dakota Territory, got post in the weeds, drove until she reached the West coast. Then she turned around and drove home.

Her 1929 "voyage" by car was 16,000 miles long—New York to Canada, west to the Pacific, south to Mexico, east to New York via New Orleans and Miami.

A well remembered taunt was the one from Laredo, Tex., to Mexico City. On that trip she forded rivers, navigated along "more imagined than real" mountain roads.

Her next excursion—back to New York via Florida. Unless she first skips up to Juneau on the Alaska-Canadian Highway.

French Forces Cannot Land Hard Blow on Night Attacks by Reds

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—The Vietminh forces generally attack at night. They come out of the jungle with mortars, rifles, pistols, grenades, knives and razor-sharp bamboo spears.

Against this kind of foe the French Union forces even with their American-supplied fire power, never have been able to land a crushing blow.

The average soldier on the French-Vietnamese side is dead tired of the shadowy war fought in jungle, rice fields and on forest-covered mountains. He is dead tired, but goes on fighting—usually against overwhelming numbers.

Indochina is half again as big as France, and has 25 million inhabitants. Viet Nam, with 20 millions, is the largest state. About eight million of the Vietnamese live in the areas controlled by Communist Ho Chi Minh's Vietminh forces. The other 12 million live in the zone of the Bao Dai government. The French-Vietnamese forces hold most of the richer areas, principally the deltas of the Red and Mekong rivers.

The conflict that has marred this land for more than seven years is basically a civil war. To millions of Vietnamese, Ho Chi Minh is the symbol of a fight for independence and an end to the remnants of French colonialism. Many of them dislike communism but still admire Ho Chi Minh.

The French count upon the increased zeal of loyal Vietnamese as the hope of an eventual military victory.

French admit there is much to be achieved before the Vietnamese become a first-class fighting force—and before the people as a whole realize there is a war on.

Over-all casualties top one million killed, wounded, captured or missing. The conflict has cost France and the Indochinese about 10 billion dollars. Two million Vietnamese have been uprooted from their homes.

The United States government regards the war as a struggle against the spread of communism into Southeast Asia and hence affecting the security of the United States. It has cost the United States half a billion dollars annually in war equipment supplied since 1950. This year America will pay out about 800 million dollars to support the anti-Communist struggle.

Red China is supplying the Vietminh with 3,000 tons of war equipment monthly. If it decided to throw in regular or "volunteer" troops to help Ho Chi Minh, the situation obviously would change.

Currently, one hope for ending the war lies in the April conference at Geneva, where Indochina as well as Korea is to be discussed. While some leaders of the Vietnamese government say the time is not ripe to discuss peace, there is an underlying eagerness for peace among French Union forces (including the fledgling armies of Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos) and among those Vietnamese aligned with Ho Chi Minh. France also is eager for peace.

Viet Nam's Premier Prince Buu Loo says Viet Nam wants a peace that guarantees "individual liberties, respects the government of the Viet Nam and the continuation of the Viet Nam nation." These will be guiding principles for the Vietnamese, Cambodian and Laotian delegations at Geneva.

How far Ho Chi Minh's demands may be pressed probably will rest in the hands of Red China.

The fighting is in the final eight weeks of the winter, before the start of the seasonal rains which always bog down military operations.

The only place a battle seems likely in the near future is at the French Union fortress of Dien Bien Phu in northwestern Indochina, 80 miles west of Hanoi. There the Chinese - trained and equipped "elite" Vietminh divisions encircled the fortress. French Union troops have been stabbing out from the fortress in groups of 4,000 to 5,000 men in an effort to draw the Vietminh into a showdown battle.

If the French Union forces finally succeed and knock out of action the bulk of the 36,000 rebel troops, they will have scored the first major victory of this long war.

Elsewhere there does not appear to be any chance for a victory. The Vietminh have their 308th Division deep in northern Laos pointed at Luang Prabang. Gen. Henri Navarre, French commander in chief, says there is no chance of the Vietminh's taking Luang Prabang.

The French express optimism that the coming months will bring a favorable turn, particularly with the more effective help of the expanding Vietnamese army.

But as the situation stands now there is nothing to indicate where, when or how that favorable turn might come.

Tomorrow John Roderick discusses the part that American aid plays in the Indochina War.

Rain Spots Unnerve Window Cleaner, He Swings Beer Bottle

REIGATE, England (AP)—Cold rain began to spot th shop windows in Reigate's business district the other day and in 46-year-old George Orr something seemed to snap.

George is a window cleaner.

Witnesses told the judge yesterday George grabbed a beer bottle and started down the main street on a dead run, smashing every plate glass winow in sight.

By the time the cops got him cooled off, he'd reduced 334 pounds 18 shillings ($937.72) worth of display windows to a mess of splinters.

The judge sentenced him to six months in jail for causing malicious damage.

Crippled, Deaf Boy Is Lost for 10 Hours

OKEMAH, Okla. (AP)—A 4-year-old boy, crippled and a deaf mute, was found early today whimpering on a creek bank after wandering away from his father 10 hours earlier.

Nearly 400 volunteers, including a National Guard unit from Okemah, had been searching with bloodhounds for the youngster, Larry Walker. They had feared he might have fallen into the deep Fork River and drowned.

His father, Parr Walker, and two volunteers came upon him 1½ miles from the spot where he disappeared yesterday while his father was picking pecans.

He was reported in good condition and was taken home.

Islands Are Restored To Rule by Sultans When Republic Fails

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — After less than 14 months as a republic, the Maldive Islands 300 miles southwest of India's tip are going back to the sultans who ruled them for 835 years.

A vote by the little Indian Ocean state's Assembly to restore sultanate rule ove the 93,000 islanders and their 115 square miles of palm-fringed coral atolls was announced here yesterday by the Maldive Assembly. The British-protected republic had come in Jan. 1, 1953.

The new sultan is Al Amir Mohamed Farid Didi, son of a former sultan-designate who died in 1948 before he took the throne.

The Maldives' first President, Farid's relative Amin Didi, was deposed and later killed during political unrest attribute to a rice shortage and privileges he granted women of the predominantly Moslem islands. Two other Didis, Amin's cousins, have run things jointly for several months.

In 1924, H. E. Warren first utilized electricity for telling time.
The first water clock (clepsydra) existed in China about 4000 B.C.
Ctesibus made a toothed wheel clepsydra in Alexandria, Egypt, in 140 B.C.
The earliest form of the sundial was made in Egypt in 1500 B.C.
Far later, in 807 A.D., Charlemagne sent an hourglass as a gift to the King of Persia.
Candle clocks were the latest in timepieces in 900 A.D. England's King Alfred used such a clock to budget his time.
The Dutch and German calibrated oil lamp was a refinement of the candle clock. As the flame burned the fuel, passage of time was recorded.
In 1364 A.D. DeVick made the "father of modern timepieces" based on the principle of the escape mechanism.
In 1581, Galileo discovered the principle of the pendulum by watching a swinging chandelier in the Cathedral of Pisa.
Christian Huyghens, a Dutch philosopher, in 1657 applied the principle of the pendulum to timepieces.

Says US Will Aid Pakistan

India's Nehru Says His Government Will Consider It An Unfriendly Act

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP) — President Eisenhower announced today the United States will grant military aid to Pakistan, a move which Prime Minister Nehru of India has said his government would consider a unfriendly act.

Before making the decision public, the President sent Nehru a letter containing assurances that "this step does not in any way affect the friendship we feel for India."

Eisenhower said in a separate statement he was complying with Pakistan's request for military assistance because this country wants to help strengthen the defenses of free nations in the Middle East.

He added that the American government "welcomed" the announcement by Pakistan and Turkey on Feb. 19 that they were studying methods of closer collaborration in the interest of peace and security.

Turkish-Pakistani collaboration is understood to be regarded in official quarters here as a start toward building a common defensive wall along Russia's southern flank. It is hoped that eventually Iran, Saudi Arabia, Iraq and perhaps even India will join in the effort.

India, quarreling with Pakistan over the Kashmir territory and aspiring to leadership of a neutral bloc in Asia, looks askance at any plan to strengthen Pakistan's military potential.

Nehru has been mobilizing Indian public opinion against any American-Pakistani military tieup on the ground it would upset peace in Asia.

Eisenhower did not say how much military aid would be given Pakistan, but reports are that it will be substantial. American defense experts are particularly anxious to help Pakistan put two divisions, demoblized last year for lack of money, back in the field.

Friends of Young Buy New York Central Shares

CLEVELAND, Feb. 25 (AP)—Two Texas millionaire friends of Robert R. Young have bought for 20 million dollars the largest single block of New York Central shares, it was announced today by the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, which reported it made $2,400,000 on the sale.

Clinton W. Murchison of Dallas and Sid W. Richardson of Fort Worth, a pair of Athens, Tex., natives whose companies have assets in the hundreds of millions, each acquired 400,000 shares. Primarily they are oil men, but Murchison's interests are wide ranging. They are known to be friends of the Texas-born Young.

These 800,000 shares presumably will play a major part in the proxy battle Young is waging against the NYC directors and management who he declares are dominated by "the Morgan interests." Of NYC's outstanding shares, this block represents about one-eighth.

Young recently was turned down in his request to be made NYC chairman. He made the request on the basis of "substantial" NYC holdings by himself, his associate Allan P. Kirby, and their Alleghany Corp. Young and Kirby have said they own 200,200 shares, and there are reports the Alleghany holdings run their total to 300,000 shares.

The C&O began buying NYC stock in 1946 and Young, as its board chairman, was known to be aiming at control of the other road.

Senate Votes Down Part of Bricker's Treaty Amendment

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP) — The Senate voted 50-42 today to reject the heart of the controversial Bricker amendment to curb the president's treaty - making powers.

It also defeated, 74-18, a motion of Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) to send the whole burning issue back to the Judiciary Committee for further study.

The rejected section would have changed the Constitution to provide that no treaty or international agreement could become effective as domestic law without congressional legislation.

Before the vote, Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) declared that action on this section "will justly be interpreted as a vote for or against the substance of my original amendment."

He said if anything else were written into the Constitution the whole question would remain an issue in politics for many years to come.

Actually the section was a modification of Bricker's original clause, which was knocked out of the proposed amendment in a complicated series of votes engineered by the GOP leadership in the Senate last week.

President Eisenhower is firmly opposed to changing the Constitution as Bricker suggests and has not endorse any of the milder, substitute amendments now before the Senate.

Naguib's Removal Will Not Swing Egypt on West Says New Regime

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 25 (AP) — Egypt's new military regime hastened to assure the Western powers tonight that the removal of Maj. Gen. Mohamed Naguib as President will not swing this country against the West.

Thirty - six - year - old Lt. Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser, the emerging strongman, meanwhile took over all of Naguib's offices, including the presidency of the Republic, and kept Naguib under guard.

The need for a guard was a tribute to Naguib's popularity among Egypt's millions. Military police were posted at his home as precaution against any popular movement in his behalf that might try to reinstate him in the offices he resigned in a losing struggle with Nasser for power.

The Nasser government late tonight sought to reassure the West that it would carry on just as Egypt had when Naguib was the nominal top man.

Under the Naguib regime, Nasser as vice-premier had conducted negotiations for removal of the British from the Suez Canal Zone, the main point of difference with the West. The negotiations long have been inching along or stalemated.

Egypt repeatedly has refused to join in a Western sponsored plan for a Middle East defense command, based in the Suez, against the threat of Communist aggression. But relations with the United States, particularly under Naguib, has been regarded as friendly.

The Nasser tactics in sequence on an eventful day were:

1. A pre-dawn announcement by the Revolutionary Council that Naguib resigned three days ago when he was denied increased powers he had sought.
2. Placing a house arrest guard around Naguib to prevent popular uprisings.
3. The bid for Western favor as the basis for future relations.

Word got around in Cairo that the Western powers were concerned over the attitude of the Nasser regime in the wake of the popular Naguib government. Nasser's Council delegated Maj. Saleh Salem, national guidance minister, to clarify the attitude to foreign correspondents at a special news conference.

Salem was told there was a feeling abroad that Naguib's resignation might lead to a swing against the West by younger and more radical army officers, including himselm. He is regarded as the oratorical firebrand of the revolution.

"I can assure you nothing of the sort will happen. Our policies have always been made by all members of the Council . . . there will be by no means any change in our policy, either external or internal."

Plan to Sell Stock of Gas Service Co.

Cities Service Will Not Extend Contract To Sell Gas Service

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 25—(AP)—Plans to sell stock of the Gas Service Co. in a public offering were announced today by the parent Cities Service Co., after expiration of a contract deadline to sell the properties for $32,000,000,000.

Cities Service, ordered by the Securities and Exchange Commission to sell the Gas Service Co., declined to extend a contract deadline under which the Missouri Public Service Co., of Warrensburg, Mo., would acquire the 1,500,000 shares of stock.

Sale of the distributing utility operating in Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Oklahoma was approved by the Missouri Public Service Commission, but the Kansas Corporation Commission ordered a hearing into the proposed sale.

Gov. Edward Arn of Kansas directed the hearing to determine if the sale was in "the best interest" of the 250,000 Gas Service customers in Kansas. Arn and the Kansas regulatory body had expressed skepticism that the "comparatively small" Missouri utility could manage the firm without jeopardizing Kansas service and rates.

The Missouri Public Service Co., in a 600 word statement issued later today said Cities Service twice made oral promises to extend the contract time, "but this morning informed us that a written extension will not be executed."

The statement added:

"We are confident the soundness of financing and the constructive advantages of the merger would have withstood the most searching investigation of the Kansas commission and would have resulted in its approval in the same way the plan has been approved, after careful analysis, by the Missouri commission, commercial and investment bankers, independent accountants, public utility consultants and numerous city authorities."

The Warrensburg utility now serves 150 municipalities in Western Missouri with gas and electric service. The Gas Service Co., serves approximately 450,000 customers in the states in which it operates.

Presbytery's World Affairs Assembly Here

When two other speakers could not attend the World Affairs Assembly of the Sedalia Presbytery here Wednesday, a substitute was sent and she proved to be highly interesting, presenting many facts for the more than 100 persons who were in attendance.

Mrs. Herbert Rice, sister of the Compton brothers (one of whom, Arthur, is chancellor of Washington University, St. Louis), was the substitute and she spoke at the sessions held at the Broadway Presbyterian Church.

Home on sabbatical leave with her husband, from their mission station in Pakistan, Mrs. Rice told of conditions in that country and in India and explained the place of prominence which Communism has gained in the Far East.

Gunter Kaiser, a young man from Germany, an exchange student of the Council of Churches, spoke on the problems facing the churches of Europe, especially those in Germany and more exactly those in Berlin, where the various zones of occupation influence religion.

Ensign Lineinger, a missionary on leave from the Philippines, also addressed the group, giving an insight to the religious and political affairs of the Philippines. He has worked there among youth groups and told of this interesting contact with the natives of the islands.

The three speakers together gave the Presbytery representatives many glimpses of the work of the churches in several parts of the globe and presented the problems involved in Christianity combatting Communism and other foes.

Rep. Harvey Dow Is Witness To One-Man Legislature Move

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Rep. Clifford Jones (R) of St. Louis County played a dual role today as the Missouri House held a technical session..

First, as acting speaker, he called the nearly vacant House to order. Then he left the rostrum to make a motion to dispense with reading of yesterday's journal.

Back at the rostrum, he again recognized "the gentleman from St. Louis County" for a motion to adjourn. Back on the floor as "the gentleman from St. Louis County," he moved to recess until tomorrow, when the governor's emergency appropriation bills will be introduced.

Mounting the rostrum again, acting Speaker Jones then adjourned the brief session.

"First time I ever got a motion through the House," he quipped.

The only other member present was Rep. Harvey Dow (R) of Pettis County.

Tomorrow emergency appropriation bills covering Gov. Phil M. Donnelly's recommendations will be introduced, then the House will adjourn until Tuesday. The Senate quit yesterday until Monday afternoon.

Meanwhile Rep. Max Myers (R) of Jasper County, House appropriations chairman, scheduled three days of hearings next week on a bill to lift the present $6½ million ceiling on the state's drought emergency hay program. That would permit immediate use of $1,604,000 of federal aid funds.

The hearings open Tuesday morning with L. C. Carpenter, state agriculture commissioner, and A. D. Sappington of the Missouri Farmers Association as witnesses. That afternoon the committee will hear Warren W. Fuqua of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation and Henry Thomas, who has been in charge of the hay program in the Department of Agriculture.

Wednesday, the witnesses will be Alfred G. Brittain, of Columbia, federal crop statistician, and State Auditor Haskell Holman. Holman has just finished an audit of the hay program through Jan. 31.

Thursday night another committee session will be held to hear any other witnesses.

The hay bill was introduced the first day of the special session by Rep. Christian F. Stipp (R) of Carroll County, House majority leader. It does not include an extra $2 million appropriation of state funds as recommended by the governor.

16 Classrooms For Elementary Students Planned

Work has begun on the construction of a new, 16 - classroom elementary school building in Knob Noster. Grading was underway Wednesday by the William S. Rawlings Construction Co., Kansas City, which has the general contract for $190,884. Total cost of the building will be $246,466.

In addition to the 16 classrooms, it will contain a large, multipurpose room and a modern kitchen. Lower grade rooms will be self - contained, providing drinking fountain, wash basin and toilet facilities.

Outside walls will be of structural glass from the floor level up, and the first 30 inches will be of blue translucent structural glass. Otherwise, the outside walls will be of brick. There will be tile brick wainscoting in the corridors. Floors will be laid with asphalt tile patterned to blend with the color schemes of the rooms. Window frames will be of structural aluminum, eliminating the need for paint.

Bids were opened Jan. 29. The spirited bidding made it possible for the school district to obtain four additional rooms for the building. The chosen contractors and their bids are: general contract, Rawlings, $190,884; heating and ventilation, Spillman Furnace Co., $16,433; plumbing, American Plumbing and Heating, Springfield, $18,268; electrical, Wollett Electric Co., Sedalia, $17,531; and kitchen equipment, Smith-St. John, Kansas City, $3,350.

The Knob Noster High School auditorium is now equipped with blackout shades provided by the pep squad at a cost of $198. Movies can now be shown any time during the day, permitting an expanded visual education program. The Student Council has arranged for an educational film to be shown every Friday at noon.

Winnie Urges Trade

In Effort to Reach An Understanding With Soviet People And Government

LONDON, Feb. 25—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill today urged the West to seek more trade with the Soviet Union in an effort to reach "a work-a-day understanding with the Russian people and government."

He coupled this with a call to the Democracies to bolster their policy of "peace through strength" by accepting a German military contribution to the defense of Western Europe.

Finally, the 79-year-old Prime Minister—still searching for some way to resolve East-West tensions—suggested the major powers hold in diplomatic reserve his proposal for a private meeting of the world's top leaders. He stressed, however, that it would be extremely dangerous to call such a meeting when there was little chance of success and so "use this resource in vain."

The House of Commons cheered when he said:

"Patience and perserverence must never be grudged when the peace of the world is at stake.

"Even if we have to go through a decade of cold war, bickerings and vain parlance, that would be preferable to the catalogue of unspeakable and unimaginable horrors which is the alternative."

Churchill expressed confidence that the Asian Conference in Geneva on April 26 will produce "fruitful results." He pointed out the Geneva talks will bring together diplomats of the United States and Communist China and said:

"There is nothing improper in belligerents meeting to discuss their affairs even while actual battles are going on."

He described the agreement to hold the Geneva conference on Korean and Indochinese problems as "one outstanding, hopeful result" of the recently concluded four-power foreign ministers conference in Berlin.

In Churchill's view the Berlin conference had some favorable results—"it restored the reputation of such meetings after some very unfortunate examples . . . new contacts, indeed, have been established at varous levels."

Spelling out his hopes for a revival of trade with Russia, Churchill said:

"I do not suggest that at the present time there should be any traffic in military equipment, including certain machine tools such as those capable of making weapons.

"But a substantial relaxation of the regulations affecting manufactured goods, raw materials and shipping. . . would undoubtedly be beneficial in its proper setting, bearing in mind all the military and other arguments."

He said the regulations preventing shipment of certain goods to Russia were drawn up three or four years ago in different circumstances than prevail now, and added his government was examining and discussing these regulations.

"I am speaking so far, of course, only of trade with Russia," he emphasized. "We cannot relax restrictions on trade with Communist China until the Korean, or perhaps a wider Far Eastern peace has been established."

Stevens-McCarthy Agreement Not Surrender by Army Secretary

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP) — Secretary of the Army Stevens, with the backing of President Eisenhower, served notice tonight he will "never accede" to any abuse, browbeating or humilation of Army witnesses by Sen. McCarthy or other investigators.

Stung by the practically universal belief that his "peace pact" of yesterday was a surrender to the Wisconsin Republican senator, Stevens issued his statement at the White House after a day of huddling with his officials, including Eisenhower.

The White House declared Eisenhower had read the Stevens statement and "approves and endorses it 100 per cent."

The McCarthy - Stevens feud promptly erupted anew. McCarthy accused the Army chief of making "a completely false statement."

Stevens said that at his meeting with McCarthy and other members of the Senate Investigations subcommittee yesterday he had received assurance that "abuse" of witnesses would not be permitted in the future.

These assurances did not appear in yesterday's "peace pact" and Stevens did not mention them until tonight. Labelling Stevens' statement about the assurances "completely false," McCarthy said:

"Absolutely no concession was made that any wittness was abused."

He said that to promise not to abuse them in the future would amount to admitting that they had been abused in the past.

"We made it very clear," the senator said, "that any witness from the Army or anywhere else, if he is not frank and truthful, will be vigorously examined to get the truth about Communist activities.

"If it will be unpleasant to tell the truth, I can't be responsible."

These latest turns in the McCarthy-Stevens feud came shortly after Republican leaders on Capitol Hill failed in agitated efforts to white a new "peace pact" modifying the McCarthy-Stevens truce reached yesterday.

The move by key GOP figures was apparently designed to take some of the sting out of Stevens' feeling that he had been given the rough edge in the "surrender" episode.

Hurried all-day conferences at the White House, on Capitol Hill and at the Pentagon had signalled earlier that some move was impending in an effort to heal the breach.

Stevens himself had denied reports that he had asked the White House for a public expression of support from President Eisenhower and would resign if it was not forthcoming.

Nevertheless, the White House became the forum for Stevens, statement in which he said: "I shall never accede to the abuse of Army personnel under any circumstances, including committee hearings. I shall never accede to their being browbeaten or humiliated."

Statement Approved in Advance by Ike—

Humphrey Says Eisenhower Is Opposed to More Tax Cuts

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—(AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey declared tonight that the administration is "vigorously" opposed to cutting income taxes by "blanket increases in exemptions that would throw us back into substantial deficit financing."

It was understood at the Treasury that Humphrey's statement was approved in advance by President Eisenhower.

Humphrey added that "the administration's tax program has not been changed."

He thus opened fire on Democrat attempts to increase the personal income tax exemptions, thereby cutting revenue by billions of dollars.

Sen. George (D-Ga) urged last week that the exemptions be raised from $600 to $800 this year and $1,000 next year.

In the House Democrats are trying to raise the exemption to $700, and there has been talk that some Republicans might seek to beat them to the punch by offering a plan of their own to increase exemption. This possibility appeared to have diminished, however, in view of the administration's stand against blanket increases.

Yesterday one high Republican source had expressed the belief that mounting pressures would force the administration to go along with some general income tax cuts. But other sources insisted that the administration would hold the line.

Humphrey's statement today said in part:

"The administration's tax program has not been changed.

"We must pay the bill for the cost of our national security. This cost is coming down but is still very high, and is the reason why taxes must continue to remain relatively high until government spending can be further reduced with safety.

GOPs Trying To Make Issue Out of Taxes

St. Louis Earnings Tax Is Problem In Special Session

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 25—(AP)—Sen. Michael Kinney (D) of St. Louis charged tonight Republicans were trying to make a political issue out of extending the St. Louis earnings tax. He appealed for a nonpartisan approach to the problem.

Kinney's views as dean of the legislature were made known in a statement issued from his office while both House and Senate were in recess for the weekend. He introduced the city's earnings tax bill on the opening day of the sepecial session Tuesday.

"It is regrettable," Kinney said, "that the St. Louis earnings tax is apparently being converted into a political issue with the intent of discrediting the Democratic administrations in the state and its largest city. . .

"The pattern of the Republican strategy becomes increasingly clear. The Republican House leadership is obviously not attacking the governor's drought relief program.

"So as an alternative they have seized on the earnings tax as a vehicle for discrediting the Donnelly and Tucker administrations. They presumably reason that the defeat of the St. Louis proposal would put the Republican party in the position of championing a tax reduction in an election year."

Kinney said both extension of the state's emergency hay shipping program and the earnings tax "transcend party lines." He appealed to legislators to consider them solely on their merits.

"As citizens of Missouri," he said, "we of St. Louis are making no political distinction on the drought relief program which is for the benefit of all of the people and we ask that our problem be given the same fair consideration. All that we are asking the state to do is to give us the authority without regard to politics to meet our own financial crisis."

Kinney said that when Gov. Donnelly was quoted as saying he was "not interested" in the earnings tax, he referred only to preparation and introduction of the bill and not to its contents. He said the governor was not talking about the tax as a piece of legislation.

Rep. Christian F. Stipp (R) of Carrollton, House majority leader, told newspapermen of the governor's comment after a conference of legislative leaders with Donnelly Tuesday.

In his message to the special session later that day, the governor made no comment on the merits of the tax. He merely recommended that the legislature consider the city's proposal.

The House held only a technical session today and has another one scheduled for tomorrow to receive bills based on the amounts of emergency appropriations recommended by the governor.

Woman Rejects Parole From Workhouse Term

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 25 (AP) — Dian Sue Nolan today rejected an offer of a parole from a six-month workhouse sentence for larceny, telling Circuit Judge John K. Regan 'I'm guilty and I want to serve my time."

She said she didn't want a parole officer "on by back" and explained a parole would deprive her of fun for a longer period than her workhouse sentence.

She was sentenced in a tavern burglary of Feb. 4. A male companion was sentenced to three years in prison in the same case. Miss Nolan has no previous police record.

Attorneys Begin Battle to Free Ex-Con From Jail

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 25—(AP)—Attorneys started a legal battle today in an effort to free Frank (Buster) Wortman, ex-convict and mystery figure, from the St. Louis City Jail where he is held for contempt of court.

Wortman, 49, was sent to jail yesterday on orders of Federal Judge George H. Moore for refusing to tell a federal grand jury where he lives. He was the third grand jury witness to be jailed in one week.

Wortman's attorneys, headed by Morris A. Shenker, filed motions in the U. S. Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals seeking his release.

The motions ask for a stay of execution or temporary stay of execution of the contempt citation or as an alternative the admission of Wortman to bond pending the outcome of the case.

The grand jury is investigating reports of labor racketeering and also has been directed to determine whether union funds have been used improperly. What information the jury sought from Wortman was not known.

Wortman, who has no labor connections, is reported to be the operator of nightclubs and a pinball machine firm. He was sought as a witness by the Kefauver Crime Investigating Committees in 1950, but could not be found for service of a subpoena. He is reported to live in a suburb outside Collinsville, Ill.

Harold J. Gibbons, secretary-treasurer of AFL Teamsters Local 688, and Louis Berra, his assistant, were freed from jail after agreeing to let the grand jury examine the union's financial records on orders of the international union.

She summoned Fred Schmoll, secretary-treasurer of the firm. The man told him he "just got out and can't get a job. If I get caught I'll only get the pen." The money was taken from Miss Sanders.

Syria's President Resigns

Shishekly Reported To Have Left The Country After Army Revolt Threatened

DAMASCUS, Syria, Friday, Feb. 26 (AP)—President Adib Shishekly, Syria's bullet-dodging President, resigned late last night because an army revolt had threatened the country with bloodshed.

The diminutive President who headed a military coup in 1951 was reported to have left the country.

The rebels began broadcasting claims of having engineered a successful revolution early yesterday from Aleppo in the northern part of the country. They gave Shishekly 24 hours to get over the border.

The leaders called for recognition of former President Hachem Bey Attassi, whose regime was crumpled in 1951, as the lawful new president.

In Damascus, however, it was understood the speaker of the Assembly would assume the interim presidency until a new president is elected. Shishekly, elected president only last June, resigned in a letter to the speaker of the Assembly in which he said he was quitting "to prevent bloodshed among the people and army I so much love, and I consider this action a service to my country."

Gen. Shawkat Shukeyr, chief of the general staff, issued an appeal to the nation to keep calm. He declared the army is "one indivisible unit in the country's defense."

Although correspondents were aware of the day-long events it was not until this letter of resignation was announced that they were allowed to report them from here.

The first reports said the rebels seized five cities, including Aleppo, the country's largest. Later unconfirmed reports said army elements in the south joined the rebellion.

A rebel statement smuggled into Beirut, which called for recognition of Attassi as lawful president of the Arab republic, urged the rebels, "brothers in arms" to join them. It accused Shishekly of falsifying army elections, government corruption, suppression of education, closing down of universities and schools and the arrests of lawyers and students.

The report over the Aleppo radio said "Our Arab people rejoice in the overthrow of the despot Shishekly." It said troops from that city and Syria's northern districts had seized Aleppo and declared open revolt under the leadership of Col. Mustafa Hammoud. The broadcast blasted Shishekly as a "tyrant, oppressor and slave of the imperialists."

The rebels called on Shishekly to get out of the country and spare bloodshed. The broadcast said the rebels wanted to restore "republican, democratic government."

Refuses to Reconsider Phone Rate Increase

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 25—(AP)—The State Public Service Commission refused today to reconsider its Feb. 9 decision granting Missouri Telephone Co. a $152,000 a year rate increase or to cut the amount of the increase.

The city of Columbia made the request last week, asking that the hike be limited to $50,000. Today the commission said a new hearing was unnecessary and it did not appear the increase was too high.

The commission reminded the city that it is requiring the company to supply regular reports on the progress of expansion and improvement programs as well as the financial condition of the firm. Those reports will show quickly whether the increase was too great, the commission said.

The rate boost is to become effective March 1. Besides Columbia, Clark, Queen City and Sturgeon.

Mississippi Stage Above Zero After Rains

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 25 (AP)—Recent rain in upper areas of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers raised the Mississippi stage here above zero today for the first time since Dec. 23.

The lowest stage of the winter was 4½ feet below zero Jan. 28 and followed an ice jam in the river near Grafton, Ill.

The Army engineers reported that despite the recent low stages, partly caused by drought conditions, a full 9-foot channel has been regained for irrigation on the upper Mississippi River.

Release of stored water from reservoirs and careful handling of pools behind the dams made the required channel possible.

Although normally barge traffic doesn't begin on the upper Mississippi until mid-March, the engineers predicted that lock 18 above Burlington, Iowa, will be open to traffic March 1.

Women's Clubs Finally Reap Due Rewards

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

America's 30 million clubwomen are feeling their oats.

Long accustomed to cartoon lampoons and husbandly barbs, the girls now are reaping some long-overdue rewards.

It's beginning to dawn on the general public, it seems, that if a town needs a new school, a community center or somebody to tame its teen-agers, the local women's clubs usually can get the job done.

Recently I was asked to sit in on a panel of judges to choose the Clubwoman of the Year for a Woman's Home Companion award. The stacks of nominations were so imposing, and the accomplishments so impressive, that not only were the judges almost floored but the magazine staff decided to run an honor roll of 250 clubs throughout the country which have accomplished community miracles in the last year.

There were innumerable instances where women's clubs had succeeded in accomplishing some long-needed project after communities had failed in the job. One managed to get a bond issue voted for a new school to replace a century-old firetrap. Another got a community center built and in operation within a year. Another developed a recreation center for a city's old folks.

What surprised me was that so many of the clubs were made up of young members—not the dowager types that cartoonists love to depict.

Thousands of young mothers with several small children seem to be finding time to get out and do their community duty, without neglecting either home or children.

There's no doubt that the girls are getting things done, and that membership in women's clubs all over the country is growing every day.

Just to give you an idea—there are more than 1,000 women's clubs in Detroit, 650 in St. Paul and 92 in Ogden, Utah.

The figure of 30 million members of U.S. women's clubs represents the combined membership of 18 national organizations, including the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which alone has an estimated membership of 5½ million women in this country and 11 million over the world.

Region Library Notes—

Church Groups Find Volumes For Study in New Bookmobile

The Boonslick Regional Library is an asset to church groups since various ones use books and films in their work.

One mission study group is reading about life in other lands and trying to understand other people. This group of books includes biographies: "Fifth Chinese Daughter" by Wong, "Postmarked Moscow" by Kirk and "Daughter of Confucius" by Wong and Cressy.

It includes fiction about other peoples. "My Indian Son-in-Law" by Wernher and factual material like "Apache Land" by Ross Santee. "People of the Deer" by Mowat tells about the life of the Eskimo Indians of Canada near the Hudson Bay. "I Married an Arab" by Bushakra and "Bolahim: an African Adventure" by Junge are among the books being read by this group.

Another church group is studying devotional literature. Included in this group is "A Guide to Confident Living" by Norman Vincent Peale, "Mr. Jones, Meet the Master" by Peter Marshall and even some fiction like "The Lost Shepherd" by Sanford. The life of Kagawa is studied as an example of Christian devotion. In addition to these titles the library has "Meditations" by Grace Crowell, "Abundant Living," "The American Road" and others by E. Stanley Jones. "A Faith for Tough Times" by Fosdick and "The Recovery of Family Life" by Trueblood.

The Catholic communities in the area are enjoying "Art Treasures of the Vatican," "Sheen's "Life Is Worth Living" and "A Treasury of Catholic Thinking" which is a collection of works from various authors.

Several church groups have made good use of films in their programming. Flat Creek Baptist Church, Boonville Presbyterian and Methodist Churches, Bunceton Federated Church and Lake Creek Methodist Church, are among the growing number of film users. Travel and other educational film provide excellent group program material. Film on South America, Canada and other places of the world, such family relations film as "Developing Responsibility" or "Who's Boss" can provide good background for discussion.

Overhaul State Legislatures Is Proposed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—A major overhaul of state legislatures was proposed today by a 12-member study committee of the American Political Science Assn.

Some of the legislative powers would be transferred to loval governmental units, and automatic redistricting would be required to eliminate 'over - representation" of rural areas.

Reporting on a four-year survey, the committee also recommended stricter control of lobbyists and a "code of ethics" for the present 7,600 state legislators.

The group put in a good word for the unicameral or one-house legislature—now operating only in Nebraska — and favored smaller legislatures and a streamlining of committees.

The study committee was made up of professors of political science and national and state legislative experts. Its chairman was Prof. Belle Zeller of Brooklyn College.

The study's results are compiled in a 294-page book published by Thomas - Crowell Co.

It is sequel to an association committee's report in 1946 which led to the La Follette - Monroney Act reorganizing the procedures of Congress.

The book calls the modernization of state legislatures "the most important piece of unfinished business in the area of government reorganization."

It says these bodies now are "poorly equipped to serve as policy-making agencies in mid-20th century America," but that they can and should be made to function as "dynamic, coordinate, efficient, policy-formulating bodies."

The growth and complexity of state functions, as well as the new burdens created by grants-in-aid and other federal-state relationships, say the experts, have created problems which cannot be met adequately by "the old-fashioned, time-consuming legislative procedures, antiquated organization, inadequate and incompetent staff services."

The committee found the committee system "archaic, not having changed in most states in any important respect for 50 or a 100 years—or more." Also, "rules of procedure that antedate the invention of the printing press still prevail in many jurisdictions," and some legislative bodies still continue to consume from one fourth to one third of their session time in roll calls.

Fultonites Hear Time From Carrollton Clock

FULTON, Feb. 25 (AP) — Fulton residents are getting the time of day from the Carrollton courthouse clocks.

State Freight Rates Increased On ICC Demand

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Public Service Commission bowed to the demands of the Interstate Commerce Commission today in ordering an increase in intrastate rail freight rates to put them on a par with interstate rates.

The increases will cost Missouri intrastate shippers an estimated $750,000 to $1,000,000 more a year, a PSC spokesman said.

Last year, the state commission refused to raise rates within the state to the same level as interstate rates on grounds there were inequities in ICC orders that split Missouri into four rail freight zones. But Feb. 1, the ICC issued an ultimatum:

Missouri had to raise intrastate rates by March 19 or the ICC would do it. In effect, that would be outright federal control of Missouri intrastate rates.

Minority Hits Okay of Postal Rate Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—Seven Democrats and one Republican dissented today from a House committee's formal endorsement of a 240-million-dollar postal rate boost, calling it an "unconscionable burden . . . contrary to the public interest."

The minority report from the 25-member Post Office Committee denounced the Eisenhower administration's bill for higher mail rates as an added "tax" and a "radical departure from the concept of public service which is the keystone of our postal establishment."

The committee majority, on the other hand, urged adoption of the rate bill and said there is need of additional revenues to offset chronic deficits in post office operations.

The majority contended that although the cost of mailing out-of-town letters would go up from 3 to 4 cents, mail users would still be getting a bargain at the higher figure.

They also defended the proposal to raise air mail from 6 to 7 cents, declaring it is justified because of the preferential and speedy handling given this class of mail.

The committee majority said that unlike business, the Post Office still is not charging all it could.

The bill, likely to touch off a bitter fight when it comes before the House soon, would hike first class and air mail revenues by about 174 million dollars a year, publishers' second class mail by 15 milion a year, third class mail by 50 million a year, transient second class and controlled circulation publication by $965,000.

Ike to Grant Military Aid To Pakistan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower announced today he will grant military aid to Pakistan to help secure "stability and strength" in the Middle East.

The President made known this decision in a formal statement. At the same time the White House made public a letter to Prime Minister Nehru of India assuring him that "this step does not in any way affect the friendship we feel for India."

"Quite the contrary," the President said in the letter delivered to Nehru by Ambassador George V. Allen yesterday.

"We will continually strive to strengthen the warm and enduring friendship between our two countries."

The decision to give aid to Pakistan was taken under authority granted by the foreign aid law and requires no further congressional sanction.

Indian leaders had been highly critical of the idea, previously discussed, of giving military aid to their neighbor. One obvious reason was the possibility that it would tip the scales in that part of Asia to India's disadvantage.

The next step will be to send a mission to Pakistan to determine the exact needs of that country. This will be done shortly, the White House said.

Accidents

Cordell Henderson Rhinehart, 57, Route 1, Knob Noster, was hospitalized Wednesday following an automobile accident at a bridge 3½ miles east of Warrensburg on Highway 50. Rhinehart was driving east at 10:25 a. m. when his 1951 Ford struck the southwest corner of the first of two bridges.

Witnesses said his car bounced off the bridge railing and slid sideways for half the distance of the bridge before coming to rest. He was thrown clear of the automobile and landed in the center of the pavement.

He was taken to the Warrensburg Medical Center in an ambulance. An x-ray examination failed to show any injuries; however, he was held as a patient in the hospital.

Three soldiers driving west told State Trooper William Meisburger they met Rhinehart coming toward them just after they had crossed the bridge.

After the accident they threw a blanket over the unconscious man and directed traffic around him.

Rhinehart was the only passenger in the car, which was virtually demolished.

Mrs. J. B. Mulcahay, 520 Wilkerson, fell while walking along the sidewalk at the side of her home Wednesday and fractured her right hip. She was taken to Bothwell Hospital, where she is a patient.

Many Thrills In Thursday Night Events

A slim crowd at the Pettis County Post No. 16 American Legion wrestling matches enjoyed more than two hours of thrilling wrestling in the double-main event held Thursday night. As one fan said there was a "thrill-a-minute" in both events.

In the opening event Olga Zepeda, Houston, Tex., won two out of three falls, on fall when her opponent Ann La Verne, Canton, O., was disqualified for unnecessary roughness. It was a packed full of thrills event and kept the fans howling in favor of the little Mexican girl from Texas. She quickly won the following of the fans from the time the bell tapped starting the match.

La Verne won the first fall with a series of drop kicks and knee lifts followed by a body smother in nine minutes and 20 seconds. The second fall was eight minutes and 44 seconds and went to Miss Zepeda who used a series of flying drop kicks, body scissors and finally ended with a body smother. The time in the third period was seven minutes and 30 second when the referee disqualified Miss LaVerne who continually kicked Miss Zepeda off the shoulder of the ring as she tried to climb back through.

In the final event Richard "Dick" Brown, Overland Park, Kan., son of former Champion Orville Brown, battled with Frank Altman of St. Joseph, to win two of three falls.

The event was another one of the rough types in which Brown kept his ringside following and Altman only enraged the Sedalians for the tactics he used in trying to win. Brown won the first fall after 11 minutes and 15 seconds of honest-to-goodness Texas rules wrestling. He polished Altman off with a series of right forearm slugs to the boy from St. Joe and knocked him to the floor to win.

In the second period Altman cut short the time by a series of headlocks and tosses, followed by a terrific smash to Brown's chest knocking him to the mat. A smother won in six minutes. Brown came back in the third period to have another terrific battle in the ring with Altman, but a series of flying toe holds ended the event when Brown got a leg twister on Altman who gave up. The time was 14 minutes.

The next matches will be Thursday March 11.

Tucker Asks Rural, City People Understand Each Other's Problems

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 25 (AP)—The mayor of St. Louis tonight called for an understanding by rural and city residents of each other's problems to break the shackles "that often limit the development and prosperity of Missouri as a whole."

In a speech prepared for delivery at a banquet of the Missouri Rural Electrification Association convention, Raymond R. Tucker appealed to the delegates to do their best to "break the dark barriers of prejudice and misunderstanding which often separate city and farm dwellers."

He said that on a tour of the state last fall and winter to tell outstate residents of St. Louis problems, he found that the city had not taken time out to inform the rest of the state of its troubles.

Mayor Tucker recently has been seeking help from rural legislators to get an extension of legislative authority for continuation of the city's earnings tax. The issue is to come up at the present special session of the legislature.

Actor Barker Testifies Sons Told Him Hughes Visited Wife, Hayward

BURBANK, Calif., Feb. 25 (AP)—Actor Jess Barker testified today that his twin sons told him that Howard Hughes had called to see his wife, actress Susan Hayward.

Barker was asked by his attorney whether there had been any change in the attitude of 9-year-old Timothy and Gregory toward him since he left the couple's home last July 17.

"They have been quite silent toward me," Barker replied, "but they did tell me that a man who had called at the house to see their mother had been introduced to them as 'Mr. Magic.'

"They told me that he had a long black chin.

"And when I asked who this man might me, they said: 'His name is Howard Hughes, and he said he was going to take us for an airplane ride, but mother said we should not tell you his name.' "

The Hughes referred to was not further identified in Barker's testimony.

Gordon Strong Dies; Bought a Mountain, Gave It to Public

WASHINGTON (AP) —Gordon Strong, a man who realized his ambition to buy a mountain and turn it over to the public, died last night at the age of 84.

The mountain is Sugar Loaf, 36 miles northwest of Washington on the way to Frederick, Md. It rises to a height of 1,281 feet and was used as a lookout station during the Civil War.

Strong, the son of a wealthy family, first saw the mountain in 1899 while on a cycling tour with a Harvard classmate. He decided then to buy it. It was a slow process, buying woodlots piece by piece, but he finally achieved it, building a Georgian house there and paving a road, complete with parking spaces and picnic areas. In all, he spent more than a million dollars on the mountain.

Asks Changes In Selecting Party Leaders

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP) — Sen. Knowland (R-Calif), taking an indirect swipe at Sen. Langer (R-ND), called today for an end to the practice of giving committee chairmanships automatically to senators with the greatest seniority.

Knowling, the Republican floor leader of the Senate, told reporters committee chairmen should "give a little more general sympathy to the views of the majority party" than some chairmen have done in the past.

Langer, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, often has voted with the Democrats.

The GOP floor leader opened up on Langer earlier in the week after the North Dakotan had spread on a hearing record 10 unverified charges against Chief Justice Warren.

The hearing, Knowland said, was "the most shocking event" he had witnessed during his eight years in the Senate.

Knowland brought up the seniority question himself after he had been asked about an entirely different matter.

It is time, Knowland said, that the Senate face up to the problem of freeing "itself from being shackled by the seniority system."

He suggested as one possible alternative that the Republican Policy Committee choose chairmen from among the two or three committee members with the most seniority.

Under the present setup, the majority party senator with the greatest number of years on a committee automatically becomes the chairman of that committee.

Knowland said there was little likelihood of any action on the seniority issue at this session of Congress, but that he already had held discussions with GOP senators aimed at some future action.

"I intend to carry on quite an active discussion," Knowland said.

Blank Government Check, Stolen In '44, Turn Up

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP) — The Secret Service disclosed today that 10 years ago someone stole 5,800 blank government checks, that have now begun to show up in retail stores across the country.

The service announced a nationwide search for a man alleged to be the chief ringleader in cashing the checks. It called him its "No. 1 fugitive."

Secret Service Chief U. E. Baughman told newsmen the man is George William Schneider, a 31-year-old convicted forger.

Baughman said Schneider, who was released from prison at Sacramento, Calif., after serving a term for forgery in 1951, has been identfied as passing "a number" of 5,8800 Navy checks missing since 1944.

"Schneider undoubtedly has accomplices," Baughman said. He said two other passers had been described and that in addition a woman may be cashing the missing checks.

Baughman emphasized that all persons accepting government checks should be careful to identify the person presenting the check.

The missing checks were issued to T. E. Brew, a Navy disbursing officer at Newport, R. I., in 1944. Baughman said Brew "is in the clear," and that his accounts had been cleared by the government. He added that Brew lives in St. Louis.

Ex-Red Says He May Have Erred In Giving Dates

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 25 (AP) — Paul Crouch, former Communist Party member, testified under cross examination today he may have erred on some dates in his testimony about meeting three of the Communists on trial here.

"I'm not the all-wise guy that Stalin claimed to be," Crouch said after Mrs. Mary Kauffman, defense attorney, pointed out some discrepancies between direct testimony and cross examination.

Crouch, now an immigration and naturalization bureau employe, told yesterday in direct testimony how he had met several times in the 1930s William Sentner, Marcus A. Murphy and James Forest, all charged with conspiracy to advocate the overthrow of the government by force. Others on trial are Mrs. Forest and Robert Manewitz.

Crouch replied to persistent questioning by Mrs. Kaufmann with the statement he never knowingly lied under oath.

"Even as a Communist I didn't lie," he said. "But as a Communist I made statements of half-truths and misleading statements."

He recalled instances in which he said the Communist Party was trying to help the American Negro, when "as a matter of fact, the Communists considered Negroes merely as cannon fodder."

"I could not have been an official of the party without a systematic and scientific effort to fool the American people," Crouch said.

He spent the entire court session today under cross-examination.

Pianist Takes Formaldehyde In Despondency

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Police rushed to the home of pianist Oscar Levant today after they said he told a telephone operator he would be dead within 30 minutes.

Levant, 47, was found in bed unable to talk coherently and was rushed to a hospital where his stomach was pumped out, said Police Chief C. H. Anderson.

The chief said officers smelled formaldehyde in the musician's room and reported that in the hospital Levant said he had taken two teaspoonsful of it.

Formaldehyde is often given to intoxicated persons to sober them up, the chief said.

Anderson said that the pianist's physician, Dr. Morley Kert, said that Levant is in an extremely nervous condition.

Levant's wife left home recently with the couple's children, Anderson said.

The chief added:

Levant apparently had been trying to reach his wife by telephone. The operator was unable to make the connection and said she would try again in 30 minutes. Levant told her he would be dead in 30 minutes.

The operator notified police.

Hospital attendants said his condition was not serious.

Rep. Sullivan, Woman Congressman, to Run For 2nd Term in House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP) — Rep. Sullivan (D-Mo) the first woman elected to Congress from Missouri, announced today she is a candidate for a second term in the House.

Mrs. Sullivan, the former Leonor Kretzer, was elected in 1952 to the seat formerly held by her husband the late John B. Sullivan, who died in 1952 while a member of Congress.

Mrs. Sullivan is one of 11 women members in the House.

While she says she is "not particularly superstitious" Mrs. Sullivan has "mixed feelings" about the office number assigned to her —1313. She has a silver-plated horseshoe over her inner office door.

Says Tax Must Stay High Until Real Peace

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP) — Sen.Symington (D-Mo) says the tax burden must remain relatively high until a real peace is achieved.

He pointed out that 86 per cent of the tax dollar is going for past wars and present and future national security.

"However, this doesn't mean some taxes shouldn't be reduced, but it does mean we must get the maximum economic advantage out of each tax dollar," he said in his weekly news letter.

He called attention to a proposal by Sen. George (D-Ga) to raise the personal income tax exemption from the present $600 to $800 this year and to $1,000 in 1955.

"This would ease the burden on those in the lower income groups and thus provide greater purchasing power."

Fall Between Train Cars Proves Fatal

WEST QUINCNY, Mo., (AP)—William Herbert Coulson, 52, of Quincy, Ill., was killed instantly last night when he fell between two cars of a moving freight train in the Burlington Railroad just south of here.

COLUMBIA (AP)—An unidentified elderly man was killed instantly when struck by a car driven by Charles McCormack, 30, St. Louis insurance man, on U. S. 40, six miles west of here last night.

McCormack was passing another car at the time of the impact. Other motorists said they had been forced to swerve to avoid hitting the pedestrian.

A coroner's jury is investigating.

Man Charged With Killing Third Wife

First Two Died Violently in 1920s; He Was Mental Case

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—A white-haired, mild-appearing man, whose first two wives died violently in Chicago in the early 1920s, was accused late last night of killing his third wife here.

George F. Sack, who was committed to a mental hospital seven years after being accused of shooting his second wife to death, was charged here with asphyxiating Goldie Goodrich Sack, 56, last week.

For six days medical experts had sought to determine the cause of death of the woman, whose body was found in a vacant lot across town from the apartment house which Sack owned and where the couple lived.

The medical experts reported just before midnight that the cause was "asphyxiation in a manner as yet unknown." Police at once took out a warrant charging Sack with first-degree murder.

He had been free on $10,000 bond, after being booked as a material witness because a resident of the area near the vacant lot reported he had seen Sack's automobile parked beside the lot the night Mrs. Sack disappeared.

Sack's first wife died in an apartment fire in Chicago in 1923. His second was shot to death in 1925. He was accused of shooting her. Defended by Clarence Darrow he was found insane. Seven years later he won his release from an Illinois mental hospital.

Seven years after that—in 1939—he was held 10 days by Seattle police, who questioned him about the disappearance of J. C. Young, 55, a Seattle man who had rented a chicken farm to him. He also was questioned about the disappearance of a Monroe, Wash., housekeeper. Neither person ever was found.
